GENERAL TSAI DECLINES TO BOW THE KNEE.

NO REPLY SENT TO ULTIMATUM.

ARTILLERY FIRE AGAIN BEING EXCHANGED.

SERIOUS OUTBREAK FEARED CERTAIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 11.20 a.m.

NO REPLY HAS BEEN SENT TO THE JAPANESE ULTIMATUM. IT IS BELIEVED THAT THE CHINESE AUTHORITIES ARE ENGAGED IN DRAFTING AN ANSWER AND THAT IT WILL CONSIST IN A FIRM REFUSAL TO COMPLY.

Artillery fire was being exchanged all last night, though there was less activity this morning. Shells have been dropping into Hongkew, especially in the vicinity of the Wayside wharves, with a regularity which suggests that the Chinese gunners are deliberately directing their fire into this part of the Settlement with the purpose of interfering with Japanese preparations for their offensive campaign.

The Junior Golf Club premises were struck by a shell and the north wall and roof damaged. The premises were later entered by thieves, whisky and beer bottles being strewn all over the floor, cigars and cigarettes removed. Silver cups and trophies were left untouched.

NAVAL GUNS OPERATING ON LAND.

The Japanese have now landed four three-inch naval guns with a range of ten thousand yards, which have been placed into position in square formation about twenty yards to the north and immediately behind the Junior Golf Club premises.

The guns are being manned and operated by Japanese blue-jackets and large quantities of ammunition arrived at the scene this morning.

REFUGEES STOPPED.

The further evacuation of refugees from the North Szechuan Road and the railway line area north of Range Road has not been permitted to-day by the Japanese forces, which indicates that the roads in the area are required to be free for military movements.

SUNDOWN TO-MORROW.

GEN. TSAI TING-KAI DECLINES TO CONSIDER WITHDRAWAL.

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH").

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 10.55 a.m.

The outbreak of hostilities on a bigger scale than ever before witnessed seems almost inevitable.

General Uyeda's ultimatum to General Tsai Ting-kai, the youthful leader of the XIXth Route Army, is prominently featured in both the Chinese and foreign newspapers.

Tsai Defiant.

The China Press quotes General Tsai Ting-kai as having said, on its receipt:

"I will not bow down to Japan, but will continue in the defence of my country."

Shanghai now waits anxiously for sundown to-morrow when, if the ultimatum is rejected, the Japanese will begin their projected offensive.

The Chinese forces are, apparently anything but seriously

BRITISH HINT TO COMBATANTS.

LOSS OF LIFE & PROPERTY.

RESPONSIBILITY WARNING.

London, Feb. 18.

The acute interest with which the House of Commons is watching events in the Far East was shown again to-day when the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, gave members the latest information in his possession.

After referring with regret, to the two British naval ratings, who were killed yesterday by shells which, from their direction, seemed almost certain to have been fired by Chinese guns, Sir John Simon said the British Minister had sent a Note to the Chinese Minister for Foreign Affairs, calling attention to the episode and requesting that strict instructions be issued to the Chinese military authorities concerned, with a view to preventing any possible recurrence of such incidents.

Both Sides The Same.

He was also reminded that the British Government must, in this unfortunate conflict between China and Japan, hold each side responsible for any loss to British life and property that may be caused by their respective armed forces.

Referring to the meeting this morning between the Chinese and Japanese military authorities, which he mentioned had been largely brought about by Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister, in the hope that a cessation of hostilities might be arranged, Sir John Simon said the House would regret that the latest press messages indicated that an agreement had not been secured.

Withdrawal Suggested.

Mr. George Lansbury raised the possibility of withdrawing all British residents from Shanghai in the event of a continuation of hostilities.

Sir John Simon declared that the possibility was being very carefully considered, but he was unable to give any further answer. The practical difficulties of such a step must be examined on the spot.—Reuter and British Wire- less.

Strange Japanese Comment on XIXth Army.

Geneva, Feb. 18.

Mr. W. W. Yen, the chairman of the Chinese delegation, has asked for a special meeting of the Council to be held to-morrow, owing to the grave news of the presentation of the Japanese ultimatum in Shanghai.

Mr. Yen will ask the Council to endeavour to prevent the catastrophe which seems imminent. A communication issued this evening by the Japanese delegation to the League of Nations states:

upheld the legality of the Chinese application.

The League Secretariat are of opinion that a meeting of the Assembly could be held on March 1, but if Japan decides to exercise her right, requiring time for a special delegate to come from Japan, the meeting might be delayed until a fortnight later.—Reuter.

BRITISH ATTITUDE MADE CLEAR.

SECRETARY FOR WAR OUTLINES NEED FOR CAUTION.

PRE-JUDGMENT DANGER.

London, Feb. 18.

The dangerous and delicate situation as a result of the Sino-Japanese conflict in and around Shanghai was debated in the House of Lords to-night.

Lord Ponsonby, the leader of the Labour Peers, expressed the opinion that the true facts were being concealed from the people of Japan, where the militarists were temporarily in control.

He believed, however, that there was still a great deal of right feeling in Japan, which might be appealed to and he hoped that no attempt would be made to bargain with the Japanese Government on the lines of allowing them a free hand in Manchuria in return for a relaxation of the Japanese stranglehold in Shanghai.

BRITISH LEAD URGED.

He thought that the British Government should take the lead in League Council in readiness to penalise any nation breaking its pledges.

Lord Hailsham, replying, said the situation in Shanghai was causing grave concern to the Government. He emphasised that the authorities of all foreign Powers in Shanghai were co-operating very cordially.

The British Government throughout had kept in the closest touch with the United States and Powers members of the League of Nations, and pointed out that it would not be wise or proper for the Govern-

IS WHAT THE WAY?

"Would that be the way to limit the area of hostilities?" he asked. If—the necessity arose—Lord Hailsham went on, the withdrawal of all British residents from Shanghai would doubtless be considered, but it would be an exceedingly difficult and perhaps a most disastrous process.

He gravely doubted whether many British residents of Shanghai were willing to leave and he had no reason to believe, at the present time, that such a course would be either practical or prudent.

He hoped that circumstances would not render such a desperate course necessary and emphasised that the British Government was very anxious to avoid reaching a decision until both sides had been given a fair opportunity of being heard, and until they had examined the evidence of both sides.

NO CONDEMNATION.

Lord Hailsham stated that, in the opinion of the Government, the League's appeal to Japan did not involve any condemnation of Japan or anything in the nature of a threat. It was merely a friendly appeal to Japan to do her utmost to assist to preserve peace and the sanctity of the Covenant.

The British Government, said the Government spokesman, would not relax its endeavours to get a peaceable solution of the problem. He deprecated any expression of opinion regarding the responsibility for the situation until a full opportunity had been given to the Council or the Assembly of the League.

BRITISH OUTLOOK.

The reported failure of the meeting to-day between the Japanese and Chinese was to be greatly regretted and there seemed a serious risk of a recommencement of hostilities. Such a failure was not going to discourage the Government in their peace efforts.

We are appealing to both nations on the basis that they are determined to carry out their obligations.

The British Government believed, he said, that they were far more likely to achieve the aim of ending the present critical situation and of protecting British lives and property by means of conciliation than by the issue of threats or partitioning.—Reuter.

BRITISH STOCKS STIMULATED.

PLEASANT BANK RATE SURPRISE.

London, Feb. 18.

The reduction of the bank rate to-day from six to five per cent. had a stimulating effect in the City and on the Stock Exchange.

It was the first reduction since Britain left the gold standard five months ago.

The change came as a pleasant surprise and business received an immediate stimulus, stock prices generally being marked up.

The outstanding feature at the close was the substantial gains registered by all the leading gilts of speculations. These include:—War Loan Five, a rise of three quarters to 98½; funding loan four per cent. rise 1½ to 98½; consolidated four per cent. rise 1½ to 98½.—British Wireless.

U.S. BANK RATE.

NO CHANGE AS RESULTS OF BRITISH MOVE.

New York, Feb. 18.

Although the British bank rate is down by one per cent. there is no change in the Federal Reserve Bank re-discount rate, which remains at 8½ per cent.—Reuter.

UNION CHURCH MEETING.

RETURN TO NORMAL CONDITION.

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES.

The annual general meeting of members of the Union Church, Kennedy Road, took place last evening in the Church Hall.

The proceedings began with a social, at which songs were recited by Mr. E. Keown and recitations were given by Mr. C. G.
Hickling. After an excellent supper provided by the Ladies Committee, the annual meeting was held.

Mr. A. T. Hamilton, Chairman of the Committee of Management, was elected to the chair. In moving the adoption of the report and accounts, the Chairman congratulated the Church on the ministry of the Rev. E. G. Powell and on its sound position in spite of a deficit in the accounts. This was due to the exceptionally heavy repairs to buildings, which had to be carried out in the past year but which were not likely to recur for many years to come.

Mr. P. D. Wilson seconded the adoption of the report and accounts, and this was unanimously carried.

New Officers.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
Joint Hon. Treasurers:—Mr. N.
M. Currie and Mr. S. S. Cook.

Hon. Secretary:—Mr. E. Himsworth.

Committee of Management:—
Messrs. J. Mitchell, C. Pryce and A. T. Hamilton, Dr. E. W.
Kirk, Rev. E. G. Powell, and Messrs. A. T. Hamilton, C. C.
Hickling, J. Mitchell, M. F. Key,
J. Lacey, H. J. Lamb, P. D. Wilson, A. Stevenson, S. V. Boxer, Nicholls, W. Elliot.

Ladies' Committee:—Messrs.
Mitchell, Pryce, Thompson, P. D.
Wilson, Goodall, Nicholls, E. L.
Phillips, Boxer, Nick, Hickling, Robertson, A. R. H. Phillips,
Hamilton, and Wilson.

The meeting approved of a proposal that the work of the New Territories Evangelisation Society
be transferred to the Sixth District of the Canton Synod of the Church of Christ in China, it being understood that the Union Churches of Hongkong and Kowloon will form Auxiliary Societies for the support of the work and will be represented on the Committee organizing the work.

The Report, presented by Mr. E.
Himsworth, Hon. Secretary on behalf of the Committee of Management, stated:

Annual Report.

The Committee of Management has much pleasure in presenting to the members the report and balance sheet for the work of 1931.

The year 1931 has seen a return to normal and steady progress in the life of the Church. It is difficult to estimate the spiritual results of the work of any church but we are pleased to record well sustained and increasing Congregations throughout the year, and this interest in the public worship augurs well for the future prosperity of the Church.
It is very gratifying to be able to congratulate the Rev. E. G.
Powell, on the success of this first full year of his ministry; a result that has only been achieved by a devoted and tireless service on his part and the tactful facing of the many problems which are the inevitable lot of a minister.

Finance.

A pleasing feature of this year's working account is an increase shown in the Sunday Collections of $1,105.64. This, however, is offset by a serious deficit in the amount of subscriptions, and it is hoped that this lost ground will be regained during the coming year.
In preparing a budget for the year
a reasonable amount is set aside for repairs and renewals, but two big items under this head have resulted in much heavier expenditure during 1931 than was anticipated. Retrussing the Church Hall roof and the rebuilding of the entire lavatory accommodation absorbed $3,725.67. These have contributed to an adverse balance for the year, amounting to $2,141.99,

but your committee believes that such extraordinary expenditure is unlikely to recur during the forthcoming year. The Church has naturally suffered from the trade depression experienced during the year but your committee is confident that the congregation will not allow the Church to become financially embarrassed.

The Services.

When the fleet was in port a naval parade was held on Sunday at 10.15 a.m. Throughout the year detachments from the South Wales Borderers have regularly attended the ordinary morning services. Service men were well represented at the evening services and at the Social hour which followed. We are indebted to the Ladies' Committee for the work undertaken in supplying refreshments on these occasions and to Dr. Ride who made possible the broadcasting of the community singing.

Young Peoples' Society.

A series of bathing and tennis parties were held during the summer months, all of which were well attended and furnished enjoyable afternoons. In the course of the year a new feature was established in "Young Peoples' Sunday"
—the morning service of the fourth Sunday in each month being devoted to the interests of young people. However, there still exists a real need for more cohesion among the young people of the church and for an effort to fill the gap which exists in the religious lives of so many after the conclusion of their Sunday School days.

The Choir.

Throughout the year the Choir has done good work in the morning and evening services. Our thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs.
Phillips for entertaining the Choir
at a most enjoyable social evening towards the end of the summer which brought members together and made a starting point for renewed activities in the winter.
These efforts culminated in the Choir Festival on the last Sunday in the year when a special musical service was held and selections from the "Messiah" were rendered.
The success of this Choral Service was proved by the exceptionally large and appreciative congregation and the enthusiasm with which outside helpers came to our assistance. We hope something similar can be arranged every year. The Committee is greatly indebted to our Organist and Choir-Master, Mr. Longyear, for his faithful and successful services.

The N.T. Evangelisation Society.
It is unfortunate that the accounts of the New Territories Evangelisation Society showed a deficit for the year. It is with the hope of interesting a larger number of people in and extending the work on the New Territories that a proposal will be made at the annual general meeting for the transfer of control of the Society to the Sixth District of the Church of Christ in China. It is further proposed that an auxiliary missionary society shall be formed by this church whose primary object will be to assist the New controlling body in maintaining the work on the New Territories. The results of the Society's work during the year have been extremely gratifying, a great deal of interest centring round the erection of a new chapel at Castle Peak. There have been constant appeals from districts where the organization has not yet reached and we should be failing in our duty if we denied the Christian message to those who desire to receive it.

The Sunday Schools.

Kennedy Road: An encouraging feature of Church life in 1931 was the increased activity shown in the Sunday Schools. Joint services were held in the Church on Sunday School Anniversary Sunday

and on Christmas gift Sunday. The number of Scholars at Kennedy Road is now 60 under the supervision of seven teachers and a hard working superintendent Mr. Nicka.
The children had a most enjoyable afternoon picnic at Repulse Bay in October. During the year the Scholars contributed $150 to the New Territories Evangelisation Society.

Quarry Bay.

The Sunday School at Quarry Bay meets at three o'clock on Sunday afternoons in Talcoo Club Hall.
The attendance has been well maintained during 1931 and there are about 40 names on the roll.
The children's weekly offerings provide education for one pupil in the Ying Wah Girls' School. The school is fortunate in having an enthusiastic band of teachers who do much good work among the scholars.

The Committee desires to express its deep appreciation of the work done by those who have helped in the Sunday Schools during the year.

Kowloon Union Church.

The Committee desires to congratulate the Kowloon Union Church on the completion of the new church and manse, also upon the new constitution which they have adopted. We rejoice with them in the settlement of the Rev.
Dr. Allen, as successor to the Rev.
Horace Johnston. The enthusiasm displayed during the year and the large gathering to welcome the minister promise well for the future.

Ladies' Committee and Guild.

The report of the Ladies Committee and Guild states:—At the first meeting the title of the Committee was changed to the Ladies Committee and Guild and later in the year the members of the work party sub-committee of the Women's Guild were co-opted.

Two jumble sales were held one in May the other in November, and proved very successful. As a result of the first the sum of $400 was given to the Hongkong and
New Territories Evangelisation Society. The second sale was in aid of home charities, but it was decided to defer remittance meanwhile, on account of the low rate of the dollar.

A bridge and mah-jong drive was held in October and proved a great success in every way. A feature of the meeting was splendid display of work demonstrating the activities of the working party of the Guild. A social gathering for service men was held in March and was well attended.

Some of the members of the committee arranged afternoon parties at their own homes, as a result of which the social entertainment fund benefited considerably. Other activities included the provision of flowers and other decorations for the church, and the undertaking of tea arrangements for the Sunday evening social hour.

HARDY LONDON WOMEN ATHLETES: TWO CROWN PRINCES.

It was a cold winter day, and that water was icy. But these women runners didn't mind, as their smiles attest, when they had to ford a stream during a cross-country race at Morden, in the environs of London.

Hailed in Paris with all the pomp accorded to the rulers of the greatest nation, the Crown Prince of Abyssinia is shown here as he signed the Golden Book at the Arc de Triomphe in the French capital.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

by KAY CLEVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Ann, Cecily and Mary-Frances Fenwick live with their grandparents, once wealthy, now no longer so. Ann's and Cecily's earnings support the household. The girls have been orphaned since childhood. The grandparents are known respectively as "Bosley" and "Grand" and they insist on keeping up pretences of their former wealth. Ann, 23, and Cecily, 22, do secretarial work and Mary-Frances, 16, is still in school. When the story opens Ann has been engaged to Philip Gordon, young lawyer, for eight years.

Cecily brings Harry McKelvey home to dinner. It is evident that she is falling in love with him. Mary-Frances has a telephone call from her friend, Ermintrude, who is excited about the arrival of an actor known as East of Arramont. The two girls make plans to meet him. Phil comes to see Ann. He is late and rather irritable. When he leaves he promises to kiss Ann.

Next afternoon Mary-Frances and Ermintrude go down town hoping to meet Dr. Arramont.

CHAPTER IX

Ermintrude, plumper and less favoured with positive prettiness than was Mary-Frances, and hence her satellite, received the accusation at least indifferently. Since nine o'clock the previous evening, omitting only the few grudging hours given to sleep to wards down, and the stupid interval spent in the high-school classrooms, Mary-Frances had talked unceasingly of her approaching romance. That she herself was slightly bored with the affair Ermintrude would not have admitted. That she was fearful of proceeding further into it Ermintrude had been admitting repeatedly and more and more urgently for 18 hours.

"Yes," said Mary-Frances, "that is the trouble with you, Ermintrude."

"What is?" asked Ermintrude. "That you're like my sisters, Ann and Cecily, I told you. They think any old thing like their jobs, or keeping that old house of ours for Grand and Rosalie, or my education, even, is more important than love."

"Everybody says," contributed Ermintrude, "that your sisters are awfully good girls."

"Well," said Mary-Frances, as if the discussion had been one of racial characteristics and Ermintrude had remarked that Ann and Cecily were white, "of course they're good. Why shouldn't they be good?"

"Anyway," said Ermintrude, "I don't think you'd better, Mary-Frances, I don't honestly."

of advancing in order had ever been, for Mary-Frances, a trying tendency. At the moment, it was more exasperating than usual, because Ermintrude knew, since she had been thoroughly informed, that Mary-Frances's whole life's happiness depended upon successful carrying through this coming venture. "Ermintrude Hill," said Mary-Frances, "sometimes you make me just sick and disgusted."

"Last night," Mary-Frances conceded, "you were all right. You understood about ideals, and the importance of love and everything. I don't know what's got into you today. I guess you just don't care about my life's happiness being fulfilled nor anything."

"I do too," said Ermintrude. "But just the same I don't think you should go and pick up strange men on the street."

"That's nice, isn't it?" reproved Mary-Frances bitterly. "And it was you your own self, over the phone last night, that said all about soul crying to soul and everything."

"Well," Ermintrude gloomily admitted, "maybe I did. But just the same, if Mother and Daddy should find out that I picked up a strange man on the street they'd kill me. They'd just naturally kill me—that's all."

"I suppose," said Mary-Frances, spurningly matching Ermintrude's gloom, "that you expect to get a long ways with your stage career, and receive ovations and everything, without a bit of bravery. Not even a teeny bit of bravery."

"To-day, during algebra," said Ermintrude, "I kind of got to thinking about Peter, and I just almost decided to give up the stage for a career."

REFUGEES FROM FLOODED MISSISSIPPI towns in the Tallahatchie river basin are shown crowding into Webb, Miss., in boats. Streets in Webb itself were covered with water, but in the lowlands residents were forced to housestays when water rose in some instances to a depth of 10 feet.

planned."

"I don't hardly think they'll let you," Ermintrude objected. "Without a car or anything."

"They'd just better try to stop me," threatened Mary-Frances. She was a female thing, questing for love and beauty. Her tiny nostrils dilated slightly.

The attendant at the service station, pleasantly named Albert Jolly and as British as "Zed," had noticed two girls, whom he might have described as sweetly comely, approach and cross his gravelled corner. He had noticed them, and busy with his pumps and his oil cans, he had promptly forgotten them. He was vaguely startled, 15 minutes later, when he saw the two young persons again in his gravelled corner.

Albert was at an age when all youth looked much and beautifully alike to him. Still, he had retained an impression that the blue little lady was a bit more agreeable to the eye than was the stockier brown little lady. He looked again at the blue little lady, and his eyes opened wide, and his jaw went down a trifle, and murmuring and distinctly troubled he returned to his pumps and oil cans.

Mary-Frances had resolved that, for once in her life, she was going to look decent. The lipstick, which had done double duty for cheeks and lips, had been parlored from Cecily, as had the clown-white powder, undimmed by the tan and the pink powders with which Cecily carefully blended it. The cork for the eyelashes and eyebrows had been burned in Ermintrude's bedroom the night before; the bluing for the eyelids had been removed from the large bottle in the Hills' kitchen to a small vial that morning.

There could be no doubt as to the altered appearance of Mary-Frances. Ermintrude, looking again at her friend as they left the gravel and gained the sidewalk, declared, "You're a perfectly ravishing beauty, Mary-Frances darling. And, my, but you look old! Honest, no fooling, you look almost—jaded." Which was delivered as high homage, and which was so received.

The girls went on, past Rosymonde's Development and Realty Company, down Tanner street, past Ike Crombley's New and Second-Hand Furniture Company, past the Sans Bouel Apartments, past the post, showing the sign, "Fenwick avenue," and if the old street, dappled with sunshine through its spreading locust trees, attempted anticlimax or invocations, they

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"THIS MODERN AGE" SHOWING.

"This Modern Age," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, provides an excellent vehicle for Joan Crawford's acting abilities, although the story is not a particularly gripping one. She plays a role of a modern young woman, who, despite her love of a gay life, rebels against the atmosphere created by her fast-living mother. Romance is introduced, of course, and in the end everything works out satisfactorily.

Joan Crawford is quite good in the part, but Pauline Frederick is even better as the sophisticated mother. Neil Hamilton plays the male lead, but he is not too convincing. The film is admirably produced, with some effective settings which go a long way to make up for shortcomings in other respects.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

COLOURFUL SWEATERS ADD A PIQUANT
NOTE TO WARDROBES.Necks and Sleeves Have OriginalityNew Models Are Short, Fitted.

[By Joan Savoy.]
Nothing short of a whole dress or costume can have the cocktail effect of a becoming new sweater blouse. No longer can you call them merely "sweaters." They have all the grace, pliancy and originality of hand-made little blouses. And usually they add much more in the way of colour.

Sleeves Take on Variety.
Necklines and sleeves are the points of chic to gaze at in the new sweaters. There are some little tricky pullovers that have short, very full puff sleeves that fairly drop off a wide yoke. But for wear in colder climes, there are several different versions of the fancy long sleeve that will catch your eye.

For one of the popular blue, blue and white tricolour effects, a navy closely knit sweater (cotton) simulates the sleeveless gilet effect by having its tight little rolled collar, yoke and cap sleeves of lighter blue and white. The yoke and the little cap sleeves are something brand new in the sweater field, looking for all the world the way a dainty organdy does when it uses ruffle upon ruffle to achieve an effect.

In Rough and Ready Mode.
Smart for hard wear is the midnight blue (left), that is practically a black and white plain and polka dotted blouse. It is an unique knit, a diagonal knit with yoke and sleeves of white mesh with dots the same dark blue.

If it's something with colour that you are looking for, a new string coloured sweater, in a loose, easy knit, has a rounding, rolled collar, scarf and puff sleeves of brown, orange and white. This is one of those short little sweaters that fits down over the skirt band, but no farther. This is the new length—all the smartest little sweaters are selling short nowadays!

BEAUTY HINTS.

Your eyes should be the loveliest part of your face. Keep them relaxed so tired little lines around the corners will not develop. Get enough sleep to keep them bright and shining.

There are several exercises which keep the muscles in and around the eyes firm and healthy. Sit in a comfortable chair and relax. Now close your eyes and see darkness. Count twenty. Open them and look at a bright light. Count twenty again. Repeat both exercises ten or fifteen times.

Focus your eyes on a point as far distant as you can see. Count twenty. Quickly change the focus of your eyes to a point at arm's length and count thirty. Repeat these two exercises, alternating, ten times. Now hold your head erect and without turning it at all, look as far to the left as is possible and then to the right as far as possible. Do this ten times and then move your eyes in a complete circle, without turning your head, five times.

Open your eyes as far as you can, count four, close them tightly and count three. Repeat the exercise ten times. Now soak some cotton pads in cool water, place them over your eyes and leave them there for five minutes. If you possibly can, do the exercises followed by the five minutes rest period, twice each day. You'll notice a decided improvement both in the beauty and the strength of your eyes within a few weeks.

You should use an eye bath at night to remove all the dirt and dust particles which have collected during the day. Fill an eye cup with a weak solution of boracic acid and water and thoroughly wash the eyes. If you prefer, you may use a prepared antiseptic solution instead of the boracic acid. If you have difficulty getting your eyes to "wake up," bathe them in the morning as well as at night.

If there are tiny lines around your eyes or if the skin looks stretched, pat them with a good nourishing cream before you go to bed. Leave a little of it on all night. If the lines are really etched into the skin, use a muscle astringent oil. It will be more effective if you warm it before you pat it around your eyes.

You should see a oculist once a year and if he advises glasses, buy some. Wear them when you read or sew, and in that way, you will keep them from becoming so weak that you have to wear glasses all the time.

CAKES WORTH TRYING.

Marzipan Varieties.

Put ¼ lb. loaf sugar into a saucepan with a pint of water and a pinch of cream of tartar. Boil together until a small thread forms when the mixture is cooled and tested between finger and thumb. Add 1 lb. of ground almonds, the lightly whipped white of an egg, and a few drops of almond essence, and bring to the boil. Turn the mixture on to a wet slab or board and work into various shapes with fingers that have been dipped into cold water.

By adding a few drops of appropriate colouring matter to different portions of the mixture you can make the most realistic cucumbers, avocets, carrots, pears, or eggs in nests.

Almond Princess.

Put 6oz. of sifted icing sugar into a basin with 2oz. of chopped almonds and 2 whites of eggs. Work all together with a wooden spoon for about ten minutes or until the mixture thickens, and then drop, in small portions, on rice paper-covered baking sheets. Lay a few shreds of almonds on top of each little cake and bake in a fairly quick oven.

WAR COSTS.

Yesterday, we had some observations on the popular fallacy that nations who go to war are only those who can financially afford it.
It will be appropriate if we now turn to the question of the cost of wars. Some little time back a table was prepared showing the cost of armed conflict to the world.
It was an inadequate table, inasmuch as it took no account of the destruction of property, the loss of human life and consequent impoverishment, of the financial and economic chaos produced, or of the moral and spiritual disturbance.
These things, of course, cannot, for the most part, be estimated. The table to which we are referring is simply a recapitulation of the Budgets of the seven leading Powers of the world insofar as they apply to armaments and Service (as distinct from war) pensions. Even in this restricted form, the figures are striking enough. They show that in a typical year no less a sum than $523,000,000 was actually spent by the seven leading nations in respect of past wars, present armaments and preparations for war which, despite treaties, may come. Here are the detailed figures:—United States, $175,000,000; Great Britain, $115-
000,000; France, $104,000,000;
Russia, $91,000,000; Italy, $50,000-000; Japan, $49,000,000; Germany, $38,000,000.

For comparative purposes, the budgetary method is somewhat misleading, since there are countries which are much more generous to their soldiers than others.
For this reason, the figures given cannot be used as a test of relative armament. But the broad fact remains that more than six hundred millions sterling was spent in this typical year on war and preparation for war. It should be pointed out that there are in addition war pensions other than service pensions. It should likewise be pointed out that there are debts from country to country which were brought into being by war and will hang like a millstone on the necks of this and future generations; and internal debts which absorb a high percentage of the national revenue.

It is calculated that Great Britain, which is groaning under a mounting load of taxation, is paying 55 per cent. of its budget on behalf of past wars, and another 15 per cent.
in preparation for possible future wars. These latter may never come, and it is hoped, and indeed widely expected, that they will not come. But they are being paid for in advance just the same.

And the case of Great Britain is,
of course, typical. In France, for example, a very small proportion is left for current domestic and constructive purposes after the overwhelming charge for past and future wars is met. Besides, though the seven leading powers are included in this list, examination would show that the multitude of smaller nations are paying on a proportionate scale the same staggering tribute to Moloch. Is it not time, in a world which is presumably willing to be governed by reason, that this levy, sometimes as high as three-quarters of the national revenue, for wars past, present—and feared—should be reduced? To ask the question is surely to answer it.

Developing Internationalists.

The Secretariat of the League of Nations, whose composition has again been under discussion by the impending resignation of Sir
Eric Drummond, the Secretary General, should furnish the world with models of international men.
It is true that all the chief offices have been allocated to various nations; but the contention, notably of Italy, that appointments to office in the League of Nations should be frankly nationalist, distorts the whole conception of the League. It does not matter that this post is held by an Englishman and that by a Frenchman, or a third by a German and a fourth
by an Italian; but it does matter immensely that in office each should regard himself not as the nominee of a nation but rather as the servant of the League of Nations.
From this standpoint the foreign ministers who go as delegates to Geneva are admittedly handicapped; in this is undoubtedly to be found one of the reasons for the League's weak handling of the problem of the Far East; they doubtless wish to forward the League, but by their office they must consider the particular views of their respective countries. The question may, indeed arise whether any man who has been brought up in national schools and has acquired national prejudices can ever become entirely independent of his early environment and teaching. The proposal has been made—and it is worth pondering
—that the officials of the League of Nations eventually should be recruited not from this or that country, but from men who have been educated in an international centre, such as Geneva itself, which possesses a distinguished university; men who from their youth have resolved to devote themselves to supernatural purposes, who have been trained to that end, who from the outset have been developed as international men. Until such an ideal can be made practical, however, the encouragement of the realisation that a League official, by definition represents no nation, but only the League of Nations, will help overcome extreme nationalistic tendencies. As such he must not be a partisan of any national policy.
He must not be swayed by public feeling at home. In point of fact the atmosphere of Geneva, the contact with fellow officials, a certain habit of thought and practice, have already helped to develop a decided internationalism. It simply remains to carry on the pre-scent tendency to its logical conclusion.

WHAT DO WE EXPECT OF 1932?

A Trade Boom

Says SIR WILLIAM MORRIS.

I HOPE in the next six or twelve months to see a great revival in all British industries that will put the old country back in the place in the sun where it ought to be. I am hoping, indeed, to see a trade boom—but whether my hopes are fulfilled and the country gets back to prosperous conditions depends upon the Government carrying out the grave duties and heavy responsibilities they have had put upon them.

And, first and foremost, we must have protection of our industries.
The motor industry has hitherto prospered because it has been thus favoured. Now we must have protection for British steel and British lace and all other British industries, including agriculture.

When I hear of shiploads of goods produced abroad by sweated labour coming into this country to keep millions of men out of work,
I feel so annoyed that I sometimes wonder whether I am one of the lunatics and all the rest of the people are sane.

The foreigners have had duties imposed on us for a long time back, but we have not had duties imposed on them. They must have considered us mad not to have retaliated.

A Triple Hope

By LORD APSLEY.

My first hope for 1932 is that the totally erroneous idea that Britain makes use of State-aided migration in order to dump her unemployed on the Dominions will entirely disappear; my second,
that migration will increase because it has an effect on inter-imperial trade, on which both we and they depend for the prosperity of our existing population; and my third, that there will be a decided improvement in trade and agriculture.

I believe, too, that towards the end of the New Year the unemployment question will begin to solve itself, not because of increased prosperity but because the drop in the birth-rate which has shown itself from 1915 onwards will begin to exercise a marked effect on the labour market. If prosperity increases, indeed, there may even be a shortage of workers.

The introduction of a penny post and reduced freights and passenger fares within the Empire would also be a forward step. A common Empire currency is to be hoped for, but, I fear, will not be seen in 1932.

The End of "Dismal Jimmies"

Says SIR WILLIAM
CRAWFORD

The closing months of 1931 have ended with an outlook of brighter industrial conditions for Britain.
It is my hope that these conditions will continue and be bettered, and that we shall have done with brooding over depression.

It would be wise to remember that news travels faster to-day than it did a century ago, and is consequently magnified. National hardships in the past often passed unheeded over the head of the man in the street, instead of causing the panic that they tend to do to-day. We should bear this in mind and anticipate the good time that is surely coming.

We have before us the unlimited possibilities of an Empire which covers a quarter of the world, including a great part of the richest and least developed lands. With these possibilities wisely developed we cannot do other than march forward to prosperity.

But we must not stand and wait and talk. We must think and act —now!

We Shall Become "Air-Minded"

Says SIR ALAN COBHAM.

I believe that 1932 is going to be a year when we shall take great jumps forward. Things move in jerks, as I have noticed, and in this coming leap year we are going to leap very much indeed.
Trade depression will lift, and progress will be most marked in every field.

In particular, I can confidently predict that there will be a great boom in aviation. We shall become "air-minded." People will realise that we crept out of the dangerous stage in civil flying years ago, and that it is now as safe to travel by air as it is to go by land; and perhaps safer. The hire of air taxis will become more common, and we shall see an aerodrome attached to every town, and probably a landing ground close to every village.

But first we have got to educate Local Authorities up to the new movement. They have got to realise that investment in an aerodrome or a landing ground is wise, since it is more than an investment in mere land; it is also bringing traffic to their town. They must learn this, and abandon their dusty ideas. I am working as hard as I can towards this end, and 1932, I think, will see my hopes fulfilled.

Revolt Against

Says LT.-COM. KENWORTHY.

My main hope for 1932 lies in the revolt of the common people—farmers, artisans, doctors, shopkeepers, and so on—against the intolerable burden of armaments.
I hope that this will happen in all countries, for all countries are suffering. France, in this matter, is no better off than we are, for with falling trade she is suffering from rising taxation and rising unemployment, both due directly or indirectly to militarism.

And in this country often shillings out of every pound of taxation goes towards armaments or the strengthening of military resources.

The present expenditure on preparations for hypothetical war cannot possibly continue unless we have all taken leave of our senses. I am hoping that in the near future there will be such an uprising of popular opinion against war that the militarists and their colleagues, the armament makers, will be brushed aside. The League of Nations can help in this, but only if Russia and America decide to join the forthcoming World Conference in a helpful and constructive spirit.

In conclusion, trade in this country will improve if taxation is reduced (and the reduction of taxation depends to a large extent upon disarmament); if the tariff obstacles to trade all over the world are removed, or reduced;
and if we come to a settlement in the matter of war debts and reparations; and the best way to do this would be to wash them all out.

An all-round reduction of armaments would be a step forward.
It is my main hope for 1932.

BAITING TEACHER.

A RECENT article in the Evening Dispatch dealt with some practical jokes which children of former days were wont to play on their elders, but what about that more risky pastime—baiting the much abused schoolmaster?

In my school-days certain bright members of the class seemed to spend most of their time in trying to invent various methods by which this desideratum might be accomplished. These were, of course, gentlemen in particular, against whom these tricks were directed.

FATAL MOTOR SMASH.DRIVER CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

The fatal accident in Waterloo Road on Wednesday when an earth cooler was killed had a sequel at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning when Mr. Fraser charged with manslaughter.

It was alleged that whilst in trying to overtake another lorry, defendant's vehicle collided with a handtruck in Waterloo Road near the Kowloon Hospital, killing a man between the shafts and injuring two others.

Inspector Mason applied for a remand when the case was mentioned this morning, and his Worship accordingly remanded the case until to-morrow morning.

BUSINESS FEELING.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce in China, with their headquarters in Shanghai, held a meeting to discuss peace with Japan.

The meeting resolved that so long as the Japanese declined to leave China and Wosung there should be no peace negotiations. They further held that settlement of the Shanghai "war" must be negotiated together with the Manchurian problem. This meeting denounced the proposed establishment of a buffer zone in Shanghai, insisting that the Japanese must clear out.—Reuter.

WORLD DIVIDES SUGAR TRADE.CHADBOURNE EXPORT QUOTA SCHEME.

Brussels, Feb. 18. The International Sugar Conference has agreed to Mr. Chadbourne's scheme for the limitation of sugar production.

Under the quota system now endorsed, Java is allotted a 1932 export quota of 1,360,000 tons, Cuba is allotted an export quota of 2,360,000 tons, Germany's limit is 350,000 tons, Poland is permitted 308,000 tons in exports, Czechoslovakia's share is 370,000 tons, Hungary's 34,000 tons, Belgium, 30,000 tons and Peru's 371,000 tons.—Reuter.

SILVER MARKET IDLE.HONGKONG DOLLAR DECLINES.

Silver is unchanged both in London and New York, but the local dollar has dropped 1/8th, the demand rate being 1s. 5. 3/16d. London reports a featureless market, with conditions very quiet. After the official fixing, the market ruled idle, unchanged, but the market is steady. Locally, the market is a little steadier than yesterday, but there is practically nothing doing.

DE BEER'S CLOSE DOWN MINES.STAGNATION OF INDUSTRY.

Kimberley, Feb. 18. It is officially announced that De Beers' mines are being closed down on March 31 owing to the very serious conditions prevailing in the diamond trade.

The company considers that a complete cessation of diamond production will tend to produce confidence in the trade and will lead to an earlier revival of the diamond industry.—Reuter.

SHIP COLLISION JUDGMENT.N. Y. K. VESSEL TO BLAME.*C. N. CO. SUCCEEDS.

Declaring that the Toyooka Maru was the chief contributory to the collision with the s.s. Kiangsu, the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) this morning gave his judgment for the China Navigation Company against the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

The Chief Justice found in favour of the China Navigation Company in both instances, allowing their claim for $40,000 and dismissing the counter-claim of $40,554.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mr. M. M. Watson of Messrs. Johnston, Stokes and Master, were for the plaintiffs and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. E. S. C. Brooks of Messrs. Hastings, Denny and Bowley, was for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

The Judgment.

After reviewing the circumstances leading up to the collision his Lordship said, in part:—I have no hesitation in saying that the main cause, at least, of the collision was the action of the Toyooka Maru in crossing the fairway into fog. It was a very dangerous course to take, and she might with safety have anchored in the then clear water to the south or south-east of her 7.43 a.m. position. She was perhaps again at fault in not porting when she heard the Kiangsu's fog signal at 7.44 a.m., but I do not so find and I do not base my judgment in any way on that allegation. I think that it is no answer to my finding above, that the Toyooka Maru had "reached an anchorage ground and should have been safe." One reply to that remark is that she had not anchored but was still moving across the area, with fog signals sounding on her starboard bow.

Collision Avoidable.

I have also come to the conclusion that after sighting the other ship, the Toyooka Maru could have avoided the collision by at once dropping anchor, an obvious manoeuvre and one which ought almost to have been automatic unless the Toyooka Maru had then no way on. I find that she had way on. The master admitted that it would have been bad seamanship not to drop anchor. If the Toyooka Maru had had way on, but he said that she was at a standstill.

Another important piece of evidence is that the Toyooka Maru's stem was bent to port by the impact. This would have been very difficult to explain if the Toyooka Maru had been stationary in the water, seeing that the Kiangsu was then turning under starboard helm. The crew of the Toyooka Maru were standing by to anchor, the operation could have been performed at once, and the Assessor agrees with me that the first anchor dropped would have had an almost immediate effect, and that there would have been no collision. The Toyooka Maru was thus at least the main cause of the collision, and she could also by ordinary care and skill have avoided it at the last moment.

Excessive Speed Not Proved.

The next point is the speed of the Kiangsu. The master said that at the moment of sighting he was going at "about 6 knots over the ground," or "about 4 knots through the water," thus putting the tide at about 2 knots. The master of the Toyooka Maru puts the tide at about 1 knot. The Kiangsu's preliminary act puts the tide at "1½ to 2 knots." I have taken it as 1½ knots, and the Assessor agrees. It would appear therefore that the Kiangsu was going at a little more than 4 knots through the water on her own showing. . . . The onus was on the Toyooka Maru to prove excessive speed, and she has failed to prove any speed higher than a little over 4 knots through the water.

Border Line Case.

It was also urged that the speed of the Kiangsu was any case excessive because of a certain rule of practice which has been laid down in various ways in different cases. . . . The Assessor is of opinion that a little over 4 knots through the water was not an excessive speed for this purpose, and that any reduction below that speed would have made the margin of safety rather fine. The case seems to me to be very near the border line, but I am not prepared to differ from the Assessor's opinion on this point. I therefore find that the Kiangsu was navigating "at a moderate speed having regard to all the existing circumstances and conditions," up to 7.47 a.m. when in my opinion the second part of Article 16 comes into play and practically supersedes the first part of that

Words are not needed to describe this picture which shows a small section of ruined Chapel following the terrible fire and bombardments of the past fortnight. There are acres of territory like this all displaying the enormous ruin and havoc created in this once crowded area.

Article.

On the other ground of complaint I hold that the Kiangsu was to blame. She may have been justified at first in assuming that the fog signals of the Toyooka Maru were those of an outward bound ship which would obey the starboard rule, and so that they were the signals of an ascertained ship, but at 7.47 a.m. at latest when those signals had become nearer and finer on the port bow, she should have realized that the other ship was not behaving as a normal outward bound ship would behave, and she should have then treated that other ship as an unascertained ship and she then immediately stopped her engines, but continued on her course.

Question of Onus.

It was impossible on the evidence to say if the nonstoppage of the engines had any physical effect in helping to produce the collision. If the Kiangsu's engines had been stopped, there might have been no collision, but on the other hand, the collision might have been worse.

As the evidence did not clear up the point, one was driven back on onus. He need not give his reason, said Sir Joseph, but he had come to the conclusion that, as the Kiangsu had broken a statutory rule, and had done a wrong thing in regard to another vessel, the onus was upon her to show that the wrong thing did not physically contribute to the collision. She obviously failed to discharge that onus. That finding, however, did not dispose of the matter, because of the "subsidiary" rule, that a ship, herself antecedently in fault, can nevertheless recover in full if the other ship, also in fault, could have avoided the collision by the exercise of ordinary care and skill.

Mainly Contributory.

In the present case he was satisfied that it was the Toyooka Maru which mainly contributed to the accident and the rule was here invoked in favour of a ship which contributed in only a minor degree to the collision. Further, the Kiangsu's negligence was not the initiating act of the manoeuvres which resulted in the collision, but was a negative default into which she was betrayed by the positive negligence of the Toyooka Maru.

It was argued that even if the Toyooka Maru was to blame in not anchoring, she should be excused on the "agony of the collision" principle, but he thought that that principle was inapplicable in the case of a ship which was herself mainly responsible for the existence of the agonising moment.

Could Have Avoided Collision.

He therefore came to the conclusion that though the Kiangsu was negligent in not stopping her engines at 7.47 a.m., yet that was not in law a contributory cause of the collision, because the Toyooka Maru could have avoided the collision by the exercise of ordinary care and skill, i.e., by dropping anchor.

The Toyooka Maru brought herself into the position of danger, and default of the Kiangsu was due to an error of judgment in the ambiguous position created by the Toyooka Maru herself. He therefore found that the Toyooka Maru was wholly to blame, and entered judgment for the China Navigation Company, with costs.

MOTORIST FINED TEN DOLLARS.FAILURE TO CARRY LICENCE DISC.

Mr. F. Burrell, of Messrs. Butterfield & Swire, was summoned before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistrate's Court for parking his car on February 7, in Mount Kellett Road, prohibited to motor-traffic, and for failing to carry an appropriate licence disc. The police stated that the incident occurred between the War Memorial and Matilda Hospitals.

Mr. Burrell complained that his permit for driving in that road had been cancelled and he had not been notified of such action.

Inspector Alexander said permits issued last July were effective until June of this year, but in the meantime, in September last, a Government regulation had been introduced requiring that fees be paid for such permits. A notification was sent through the post to each individual holder, requiring that such fees be payable in January.

His Worship, after the position had been explained to the defendant, discharged him on the first summons, and fined him $10, on the other count of failing to carry a licence disc.

SALESMAN WHO EMBEZZLED.CHINESE NEW YEAR TEMPTATION.

"I think the sooner we get rid of Chinese New Year the better," smilingly remarked Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning when he was informed that a Chinese who was charged with embezzlement, had yielded to temptation because he had no money for the festivities.

The defendant, a salesman in the furniture department of the Wing On Company, was charged with embezzlement of $25.40.

A plea of guilty was entered by the defendant.

Detective Sergeant W. McHardy said the defendant, on February 1, made a sale of certain articles in the furniture department to the total value of $217.50, but in the books of the Company had entered the sale as $192.10. The misappropriation of the balance of $25.40 was subsequently discovered.

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Wilkie Lum, a Director of the Wing On Company, said the defendant had been in the service of the firm for 15 years and received about $80, or $85 a month salary. The prosecuting police officer informed his Worship that the Company did not wish to take a serious view of the case but merely wanted "it to be a lesson to other employees." The defendant had admitted that he took the money for the Chinese New Year as he had none for the festivities. His Worship imposed a fine of $50 and ordered the defendant and his brother to sign bonds of $200 for the defendant's behaviour for one year.

GOLF CLUB MEETING.

NEW SCHEME FOR PAYMENT BY LADIES.

AS FROM APRIL 1.

Subscriptions for lady members of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club were again discussed by members, at a largely attended meeting last night, when a resolution, settling the subscription at not more than $3 a month, was carried. The Committee's scheme, which will come into operation on April 1, provides for a fee of $2 a month for all playing associates, and $5 a year for those in the junior section.

In addressing the members, Mr. L. G. S. Dodwell (captain) said: At the annual meeting last December, the Chairman briefly referred to the matter of ladies' subscriptions and a vote was taken at that meeting, which unanimously approved of the suggestion that the new committee should go closely into facts and details and draw up a scheme of proposition with a view to bringing it into effect.

Under the Articles of Association and powers vested in the General Committee, it would undoubtedly appear that the proposed measure could be adopted without reference to the members, but seeing that specific notice of this proposal was not given prior to that meeting, and as the Committee do not contemplate any action in opposition to the wishes of the majority of the members, it was decided to call this extraordinary general meeting.

Reasons for Action. Our late Chairman mentioned one or two reasons why ladies should now be called upon to subscribe and it would be as well to record these reasons, and others, as in themselves they answer many, if not all of the objections previously raised. It is not logical that something should be given for nothing.

It is even less logical when one section of the members are directly or indirectly subscribing for the benefit of others. Once upon a time there was a cry to the effect that married men made the Club, and would not be fairly treated if they had to pay extra for Lady relatives.

Analysis of present day membership shows that out of just 1,000 members and subscribers, now present, 422 have registered lady relatives to a total of 447. Thus you will see that some 578 members and subscribers, or well over half are paying for the free golf and benefits of the ladies related or unrelated.

The membership has reached, if not passed, saturation point, and before restriction comes into force, (it cannot be long delayed) it hardly seems right that a male applicant for full membership, willing to pay an entrance and full subscription, could not do so when at the time we have a considerable number of lady members using the Clubs and courses entirely free.

Ladies in Favour. The Ladies Committee definitely in favour of the proposal.

At the moment probably less than half of the lady players subscribe voluntarily to the Ladies' Section Special Fund, and part of that money is devoted to certain benefits, open to those ladies who do not subscribe. Although the Club is doing well, we have to adopt a progressive policy and this is impossible without funds. At the moment we have not got any surplus funds and the overdraft stands at about $25,000, therefore if we are to wait until funds are available, all progress or expansion must stop for some years.

It is difficult to form a close estimate of the revenue on the basis now proposed but as far as we can judge it will bring in between $3,000 and $3,500 annually and after allowing for a grant to the Ladies Committee, cost of collection, etc., about $7,000 should be available for development.

It has already been suggested that we proceed with the improvements to the existing Ladies Club House, these taking the form of a new storey with bedrooms and a lounge, and extending the existing ground floor veranda to form a decent light airy space for meals, and offering a much better view of Course.

Whereas I am not in a position to give a definite promise as regards the utilization of funds, it is obvious that we shall be in a better position to proceed with the work and general progress, if the proposed resolution is approved.

If Ladies subscribe, or become non-playing members, all will have to be registered and this will result in the general control of the Club.

Scheme Drawn Up. Coming now to the details of the subscription, I would advise you that a Sub-Committee of the General Committee was appointed to go into facts and figures. Their findings were later discussed and a few alterations or amendments made by the General Committee and the following scheme is now proposed. If approved it will be brought into force on April 1.

The fees are—$2 a month for all (registered) playing Associates—except for Junior Section who will pay $5 a year.

Non-playing Associates.—Lady relatives (i.e. wives, daughters, sisters and mothers of Members and Subscribers) no charge; Unattached $5 a year.

The Lady relatives of Life Members and Honorary Members to be exempt from Subscriptions.

Only one change of status from playing to non-playing and vice versa admissible under ordinary circumstances.

S. E. GREEN BEATEN IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Producing one of the most entertaining matches to date in the open singles tennis championship, the second round encounter between Y. Hachijima and S. E. Green yesterday was watched by a large crowd, who saw the youthful Japanese player eliminate the erstwhile champion in straight sets.

Green, still displaying a punishing backhand drive and a rather deadly short cross-court forehand shot, presented Hachijima with a difficult proposition and the young man emerged with flying colours.

Making well-timed ground strokes with excellent precision and a nice swing on either hand, he succeeded in sustaining the rallies and often came up for a short one to drive into the corners for an ace. He was, quite naturally, faster than Green, and he used this advantage to the full. Hachijima has quite a little way to go before he can regard his game as adequately developed, but there is no doubting the possibilities contained in his display yesterday.

A. L. Sullivan, M. W. Lo, W. C. Liang and D. B. Evan, all advanced to the third round, none being exceptionally extended in their matches.

The results in detail were:

Open Singles.
(Second Round).

D. B. Evans beat W. Woo 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Chiu Chun-chiu beat Wong Kam-fuk 6-1, 6-2.

A. L. Sullivan beat G. A. White 6-1, 6-0.

M. W. Lo beat Firdos Khan 6-1, 6-1.

Y. Hachijima beat S. E. Green 6-2, 6-3.

H. Y. Ho beat A. H. Rumjahn 6-2, 7-5.

W. C. Liang beat F. A. Redmond 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Y. V. Segalen and Lu Tak-lam, left unfinished with the scores of 2-6, 9-7.

No. 6:—H. Luking v R. R. Todd.

No. 7:—Ng Sze-cheung v M. H. F. Waring.

No. 8:—R. Gremillet v T. Akiyama.

No. 9:—Ho Ka-lau v E. Zimmera.

Maximum subscription for any one family as regards lady relatives to be $5 monthly.

The Club to make the Ladies' Section a grant (estimated not to exceed $800 annually) to cover various expenses.

Lady relatives with male relatives in the Colony to be eligible as an associate, unless such male relative is at least a non-playing member or subscriber, or belongs to the Junior Section.

Lady visitors to the Colony will pay green fees at rates to be fixed by the General Committee.

The question of absent fees for ladies will also receive consideration.

Chief Objection Removed. It will be observed that we have made provision for a man resident to join as a non-playing member at a reduced subscription, yet enabling his lady relatives, who subscribe, to use the Courses and Club Houses.

This removes one of the former chief objections.

Provision is also made for the member with several playing lady relatives, the maximum subscription for such relatives being $5 a month.

It may be argued that some distinction in the way of a different subscription should be made for lady relatives, and for unattached ladies, but I can assure you that this matter has been most carefully considered and the present all round sum of $2 was approved (with only one dissenting vote) by the General Committee.

It is very easy to suggest this or that sum, but when you come to consider all the facts, the question of collecting, the different classes or categories, green fees, etc., you will find that it is not as simple as it appears at first sight.

I would finally draw attention to the proposed Resolution which is necessarily brief.

No Increase Intended. The reason for asking your sanction now to a maximum subscription of $3 is to obviate the necessity for a further Extraordinary General Meeting, should it be found advisable at some future date to raise the subscription. I may say there is no such intention at the moment.

Mr. A. B. Stewart seconded the resolution which read:—That no ladies resident in Hongkong shall after March 31 be permitted to use the courses and premises of the Club except on payment of such subscription as the Committee may from time to time deem fit, but not exceeding $3 per month in each case; such subscription to be paid in the case of relative of a member or subscriber as if it was an increase of his own subscription; and that the Committee be authorized to make, alter or repeal all such bye-laws as they may deem necessary or convenient for the above purposes with power to discriminate between different classes.

There was considerable discussion on the point whether there should be discrimination between the fees paid by lady relatives of members and unattached ladies. A proposal that the committee be asked to consider a scheme of $1 for lady relatives and $3 for unattached ladies, moved by Mr. W. C. Clark, was lost.

JAPAN'S ULTIMATUM TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE.

PEACE PARLEY WHICH PROVED OF NO AVAIL.

Shanghai, Feb. 18, 9.24 p.m. To-day's meeting between Chinese and Japanese delegates has broken up, ending in a deadlock. The Japanese delegate, Major General Tashiro, who is Chief of Staff to Lieut General Uyeda, made the following demands, namely: Permanent dismantling of the Woosung and Paoshan forts; and permanent withdrawal of all Chinese troops twenty kilometres from both sides of the Whangpoo River, and twenty kilometres from the mouth of the Whangpoo River. The Chinese delegate, General Fan, the Chief of Staff of the Nineteenth Route Army, said he was totally unable to accept these terms. Chinese officials state, "The Japanese conditions are intolerable, and absolutely unacceptable."

Thus to-day's forlorn hope of averting major hostilities around the Settlement is vanishing and it is now reliably understood that before nine o'clock to-night the Japanese demands will have been presented in the form of an ultimatum, giving a twenty-four hours time limit for the Chinese withdrawal, before launching the big offensive.—Reuter

Ultimatum Delivered.

Shanghai, Feb. 18, 10.58 p.m. At 8.45 p.m. a communication, presumed to be the Japanese ultimatum, was carried by the Japanese Vice Consul and a Staff Major and presented at the office of Major Wu Tehchen, addressed to General Tan, commander of the Nineteenth Route Army.—Reuter

Six Demands.

General Uyeda's ultimatum is as follows: First, the Nineteenth Route Army shall cease all hostilities and complete its withdrawal twenty kilometres from the Settlement borders by sundown on Saturday.

Secondly, if the Chinese troops withdraw, the Japanese troops will not advance from the areas adjacent to Hongkong, nor open fire, nor bombard or pursue the Chinese.

Thirdly, all Anti-Japanese activities shall cease.

Fourth, a committee of investigation shall be despatched to ascertain whether or not the withdrawal has been completed.

Fifth, the safety of Japanese lives and property must be assured and all "plain clothes" activities shall be curbed.

Sixth, the Japanese reserve the liberty to act if the above-mentioned demands are not accepted.—Reuter

Firing Continues.

Shanghai, Feb. 18, 5.32 p.m. While the peace parley is in progress both sides have moved up reinforcements.

The quietness was disturbed at 3.10 p.m. when a dozen shells were fired by Japanese guns stationed near the rifle range at Hongkew, in the direction of Chenju.

At 4 p.m. six Japanese planes, including four bombers, flew over the Tien Tong Air railway station and emptied their machine guns on the vicinity. They then proceeded to fly over the Markham Road area.

Japanese troops, trailed by pack horses carrying mountain guns and field campaign supplies, continued to move towards Kiangwan from Woosung along the military road throughout the morning.

There was desultory Chinese firing at Kiangwan.—Our Own Correspondent

China's Resistance.

Nanking, Feb. 18. A traveller who has just arrived from Loyang declares that he saw a network of trench systems extending northward from Pukow to Hauchowfu and from Hauchowfu westward to Loyang.

Everything, he said, indicated that the military leaders were working in co-operation, and were determined to resist any possible Japanese advance, not only at Shanghai but all over China.—Reuter

Railways Defended.

Nanking, Feb. 18. That China is determined to resist every inch of the Japanese advance everywhere in China is indicated by the fact that a network of trench systems is being constructed all along the Tientsin-Pukow and Lunghai Railways, for a thousand miles; while the Chinese leaders show a very firm determination grimly to resist the Japanese advance wherever it may be forthcoming.—Reuter

Canadian Airmen.

Ottawa, Feb. 18. Eighty members of the Royal Canadian Air Force who have come under the economy axe, have conferred with the Chinese Consul General, offering their services to the Chinese Air Force.—Reuter's American Service

Marshall Feng Ill.

Nanking, Feb. 18. Feng Yu-hsiang is seriously ill with diphtheria at Hauchowfu. His temperature last night was 106 degrees.

Close associates declare that his extraordinarily powerful constitution and will power are helping him to bear up. He is confident he will pull through; so much so that he intends proceeding to Pucheng, the first station northward of Pukow, in order to confer with Chiang Kai-shek, Wang Ching-wei and Li Chai-sum.—Reuter

Japan's Reaction.

Tokyo, Feb. 18. Like the vernacular papers, the official reaction to the League's appeal appears to be resentment at its being directed solely to Japan, as this is interpreted as prejudging Japan as in the wrong.

The course to be followed has not yet been decided, but as the whole procedure is considered highly irregular, it seems probable that no reply will be sent, but instead a statement will be issued clarifying the Japanese stand.—Reuter

British Feeling.

London, Feb. 18. Amid the divided counsels there is at least emerging at least a big nucleus of agreement that the events in Shanghai will not much longer be allowed to drift.

Sir John Simon, whose hand is detected by many in the League Note, earns widespread approval for his "opportune," "sensible," and "cool" action, the product of an incisive legal mind narrowing the latitude for evasion prior to the formulation of concrete remedies. Some trepidation is naturally betrayed lest the summoning of the Assembly will have the effect of enthroning the Powers (by virtue of their numbers) who are without specialised knowledge or interests in the Far East, producing rhetorical fireworks amongst which the realities would be obscured.

There is an undisguised hope that Nanking will solve the problem by a disposition to treat before the present lull has been transformed into renewed hostilities. The boycotts from which Britain has suffered in the past are recalled by the opponents of British embolment, like the Morning Post and Daily Mail.

Chorus Grows Stronger. On the contrary, the chorus of demands for a "strong hand" is clearly growing in volume, an indication of veering sympathies by some previous friends of Japan, particularly since the using of the International Settlement as a base of operation.

The Times is among those, and writes that Japan is entitled to expect more satisfaction than China has been prepared to give, but public opinion regretted that Japan did not take the League into her confidence, and alienated sympathies by methods of terrorism.

"Japan, especially the military party, is mistaken if she imagines that the comparative moderation of the protests hitherto made represents the last word of the League and the Powers with definite and palpable interests in China."

The case for immediate action is pithily put in a letter to the Times, the signatories being Lord Cecil, Sir James Salter, Sir Charles Addis, Sir Arthur Haworth, Professor A. D. Lindsay and Professor Gilbert Murray, contending that submission to the "military dictatorship" by Japan in the Far East will have disastrous repercussions in India and elsewhere in the Empire, and urging Britain to secure American co-operation with the League and exert diplomatic and economic pressure to compel Japan to respect the collective system of sanctity of treaties.

The Daily Herald's Geneva correspondent says the impression is growing that Japan plans to do some kind of deal over Shanghai, if she can thereby get away with it in Manchuria.

The Daily Telegraph emphasizes that apparently America is not associating herself directly with the League's Note, but is carefully confining her representations to the protection of the interests of her own nationals.—Reuter

U.S. Perturbed.

New York, Feb. 18. The State Department is disturbed, according to the New York Times, by an unofficial report that the Japanese reply to the League's appeal will maintain the Japanese position as being unchanged, Japan refusing to undertake not to occupy Chinese soil indefinitely; nor to seek monopolistic privileges, provided the Chinese quit Shanghai.

Officials construe the reply as an intimation that the Japanese hold Chinese privileges, and will secure other privileges in China.—Reuter's American Service

OLD RESIDENT RETIRING.

CAPT. BRANCH TRIBUTED BY CHINESE STAFF.

After more than 40 years in Hongkong, Captain B. Branch, Official Measurer, and one of the best known figures in the Colony, is due for retirement, and is to leave on March 4. Captain and Mrs. Branch will make their future home in Auckland, New Zealand.

Captain Branch, who has been Official Measurer since the office here was inaugurated 23 years ago, is held in high esteem by his staff, and an indication of this was given yesterday when they gathered to bid him farewell and present him with some souvenirs of his sojourn in Hongkong.

Mr. Yip Kwai-wa, senior member of the Chinese staff, who was with Captain Branch when the office was formed, in making the presentations, said: "Captain Branch was more than a friend to them. He had been appointed when the staff consisted of approximately 20 men, and by his ability and diligence the office had grown to a size that necessitated nearly 100 men. In the early days Captain Branch was the only European officer and worked single-handedly supervising measuring both ashore and afloat. Captain Branch, he said, was beloved by all for his sincerity, courtesy and kindness of heart. Those who had served under him would lose a kind leader and a valuable friend. He, on behalf of the staff, wished Captain Branch all joy and happiness.

Captain Branch is one of the old school of seafaring men, having learned the business "in salt" when in 1876, as a boy of 14, he sailed round the Horn. In his early years he made the acquaintance of most parts of the world, and as all seamen have, has an illimitable repertoire of anecdotes and adventures to tell of every part in the atlas.

The "Old Days."

His introduction to Hongkong was so long ago that Captain Branch admits he cannot remember the exact date. It was, however, in the days when the Blue Funnel steamer plied round the China Coast, when Queen's Road was the waterfront of Hongkong and when executions were practically a daily occurrence in old Kowloon City. Captain Branch well remembers the occasion when the 21 pirates of the Namoo were decapitated within the old city.

Captain Branch came to Hongkong more than 44 years ago, he thinks, and has not visited England during that period. One of his home leaves was spent prospecting gold in Borneo and another in trying to locate coal deposits. His first ships in China Coast waters were the old Memnon and Duquoin, trading to Hongkong with timber. For a time he sailed under the American flag soon after the occupation of the Philippines, and was master of the ill-fated Hankow. For many years he was on ships trading to Canton and the West River. He has had the usual run of adventures that the China Coast mariner is liable to meet, with the exception of pirates. Never once have pirates boarded his ship.

His deep-sea-faring days ended in 1909, when the China Home-ward Freight conference established the measuring system for cargoes and appointed him the first official. The measuring was then confined to the Home-ward and New York Conference and for the beginning he had a staff of five, but the business of the office has increased with the traffic through the port, and now he has the assistance of Mr. H. Nish and Mr. H. A. Kekwick, in addition to nearly 100 Chinese. He has had strikes and boycotts to survive in his capacity as measurer, and well remembers the days of 1925 when he and Mr. Nish had to be the best they could with the cargoes to be measured.

The staff yesterday presented Captain Branch with a group photograph, a handsome Chinese standard lamp, together with a set of tea-pots for Mrs. Branch. Capt. and Mrs. Branch leave for Sydney on the Tandu on March 4.

DISARMAMENT.

THE GERMAN SCHEME OUTLINED.

Geneva, Feb. 18.
 A large measure of agreement with the suggestions already submitted is shown in the German disarmament proposals, which Herr Rudolf Nadelin presented to the full conference this morning. The abandonment of conscription, abolition of submarines, aircraft carriers, tanks and chemical and bacteriological warfare are urged; also the prohibition of forts near frontiers, prohibition of heavy artillery outside fortresses, and limitation of the calibre of fortress guns and mortars. The naval proposals are a maximum of ten thousand tons for capital ships, and limitation of cruisers and destroyers. A limitation of expenditure and system of controlling armaments is equally applicable to all the Powers is advocated. Reuter.

SHANGHAI RELIEF.

TUNG ON STEAMSHIP CO'S BIG DONATION.

Further contributions have been made by leading Chinese shipping companies, Nam Pak Hong firms, restaurants in West Point and wealthy Chinese residents to the Tung Wah Hospital's fund for the relief of distress in Shanghai. The most substantial donation is one from the Tung On Steamship Company, of which Mr. Woo Hay-tong, the well-known local Chinese shipowner is the Managing Director.

The Tung On Steamship Company has decided to allocate the whole of the passenger earnings of the steamers, "Paul Beau" and "Charles Hardouin" from Canton to Hongkong, for the period of two weeks, to the Fong Bin Hospital in Canton for the purpose of caring for the thousands of refugees who are on their way to Canton from Shanghai.

The Fong Bin Hospital is the leading Chinese charitable organisation in Kwantung and to that end the Tung Wah Hospital in Hongkong. The Fong Bin Hospital has been advised by Shanghai asking it to make preparations to receive thousands of refugees from the North.

Another $20,000 Collected.

On Wednesday the third day of their visits to the leading Chinese firms seeking donations, the directors of the Tung Wah Hospital, under the leadership of Mr. Chan Lim-pak, have succeeded in collecting $20,000. The Directors of the Tung Wah Hospital will continue their campaign for funds.

The Man Yuen Restaurant in West Point allocated the entire earnings of yesterday to the Tung Wah Hospital fund. The Lok Tao Restaurant and other restaurants in West Point have all promised part of their earnings during the coming two weeks for the relief fund. The hundreds of employees working in the Man Kwok Restaurant will donate their February wages. The same restaurant will also contribute 10 per cent. of its earnings for the coming month to the Shanghai distress.

Among the latest contributions received by the Tung Wah Hospital are $5,000 each from the Sincere Company, Nam Hoi Commercial Association, and Kan Wang Ip Tong. The Bank of East Asia and The Sun Company have each donated $2,000.

British Line Helps Refugees.

Since the commencement of the disturbances numerous wealthy Cantonese families have arrived in Hongkong but the poorer residents with their wives and children have been stranded. Most of them desire to return to Canton but not all of them can afford to make the journey. With a view to helping these unfortunate, Messrs. Butterfield & Swire Ltd. have reduced the steerage rate on some of the company's steamers on the Shanghai-Hongkong run and is working in co-operation with the Cantonese Club, the Kwong Shu Kung Sor, in Shanghai in handling the refugees returning to the South.

The first B. & S. boat from Shanghai, the s.s. Klunghow, will leave to-day with a batch of refugees many of whom are on their way to Kwantung and Kwangsi. The line is only charging the refugees $5 for the whole trip including their three meals a day which, it is understood, will mean a loss to the Company.

AN ARMED ROBBERY.

MASTER OF A RICE-SHOP VICTIMIZED.

A daring armed robbery was carried out in a rice merchant's shop in Reclamation Street, Kowloon, last evening, when two men held up the master, and after gagging and binding him made off with $20 in money.

According to a report made by Lai Sheung, master of the Sheung Tai rice shop of 602, Reclamation Street, about 7 p.m. yesterday two men entered by the front door and one of them asked him if he wanted to buy some scissors. Suddenly the other man seized him by the neck, at the same time whipping out a dagger. They took him to the kitchen, and after having gagged him, tied him to a water tub. They were in the shop for about five minutes, and then left, taking with them $20 in ten cent pieces.

Having managed to release himself, which was before the robbers left the shop, the man raised an alarm, but the two intruders made an effective escape.

capital ships, and limitation of cruisers and destroyers. A limitation of expenditure and system of controlling armaments is equally applicable to all the Powers is advocated. Reuter.

DOMESTIC LIFE DISCORD.

INDIAN COUPLE AIR TROUBLES IN COURT.

Hearing of a summons by Mrs. Mariam Farid, against her husband Mahomed Farid, for alleged cruelty and wilful neglect to provide maintenance, was continued before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hajira Hoffman, a friend of the family, stated that she had known Mrs. Farid since girlhood. Knowing of their troubles, she had offered her good offices as a mediator to the defendant on meeting him one day in Hennessey Road. The conversation turned to getting Mrs. Farid to return to the house, but, alleged witness, the husband's attitude was, unpromising. "If she returns, I will treat her ten times worse than before," he had replied.

Before her marriage, witness continued, Mrs. Farid appeared to her to be always happy and smiling, but after the event she appeared worried and unhappy, and even went on the occasions that witness went to the house to see her.

In cross-examination by Mr. E. S.C. Brooks on behalf of the defendant, witness stated that Mrs. Farid had grown considerably thinner since her marriage, being now less than half the plump person that she used to be before her marriage.

Mr. Brooks: Did Mrs. Farid make any complaint to you about her clothes?—None.

Sound of Blows.

Mrs. Madar, who, on one occasion, lived with the Farids, corroborated the testimony given by the complainant of an incident at the house on the day Mrs. Farid returned to her mother. Witness remarked that as she was leaving the kitchen she heard the sounds of blows being struck and on reaching the front room pleaded with the defendant to leave his wife alone. Witness held his hands to prevent him from hitting the complainant, who had a red mark on the side of her face.

Witness also mentioned that Mrs. Farid never had her meals with the household but had to wait until everybody had finished.

Mr. Brooks during the course of his cross examination asked witness if she would describe the defendant as a cruel man.

Witness replied that he did not always speak to the complainant quietly or gently and even shouted at her.

Mr. Brooks: Would you say he was of a mild disposition?—Not towards his wife.

Referring to the defendant's mother, Mr. G.K. Hall Brutton in re-examination on behalf of the complainant, asked witness if she would describe the mother-in-law as a stern woman.

Witness replied that she was very stern. When Mrs. M. Bux, the complainant's mother, was called, Mr. Brutton asked what her daughter was like before she married the defendant.

The witness replied that she was perfect and, in reply to another question, explained that her daughter was always happy and not in the habit of going out much.

Witness went on to give evidence of complaints made regarding her treatment by the defendant.

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

If you are not it is most likely because you are treating the symptoms and neglecting to treat the CAUSE. To treat disease successfully you must remove the cause. In the many complaints arising from impurities of the blood there is no finer medicine than CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, which gets to the root of the trouble by removing the poison from the blood, that is why it so often succeeds when local treatment has failed.

were neither seen nor heard.
A rounded corner brought Mary-Frances and Erntrude to Mrs.
Van Slycke's Delicatessen Shop, and automatically they stopped
before its windows: fascinating salads, golden with mayonnaise;
bowls of creamy cottage cheese;
cakes towering luscious layers of coconut and chocolate; hams, cut to pink's own perfection; olives oily green, and pungent dill pickles, and pies, and little rolls
—all only a glass window away at four o'clock on a warm spring hungry afternoon.

"I'm starved," stated Erntrude.
"I'm just naturally starved."
Let's hurry right back to our house and get something to eat.
We went to your house yesterday."

Mary-Frances, too, was torn by the teeth of hunger, but path
and purpose lay clear before her,
and, though she turned from the window with a heart-heavy sigh,
she took Erntrude's arm and pulled it and said, "Oh, for pity's sake! Come on, can't you?"

Erntrude's opposition, which,
possibly because of the amazing success attending the venture for beauty, had been constrained since the girls had left the service station, now pushed forth, surcharged with feeling.

"Yes, but, Mary-Frances Fenwick, I don't think you ought to
I think you'd better give it all up right now and go in for a college career."

Ann, at her desk in the office of the Redfern Plumbing and Heating Company, looked again at the clock on the wall. Twenty-five minutes past four, and Phil had not telephoned to her all day long. Usually, at least, when things went wrong in the evening, Phil telephoned to her early the next day—not to make love: Phil did not approve of love-making over the telephone—but to reassure her, to let her know that he was not angry, to make an engagement for the evening. It was mean of him not to telephone today. She would have called him gladly, but Phil thought it not quite nice for girls to telephone to men. It was mean of him. Getting a number was so easy. Waiting for a message—waiting for anything was hard.

WOOSUNG VETERAN.

COMDR. DAVIES LEAVES
HOTEL.

Shanghai, Feb. 18.
Commander Davis, retired British naval officer, aged 80 years,
has now agreed to leave his hotel,
the Fort Hotel at Woosung, where he insisted upon staying throughout the bombardments, flying the British flag over his house.

Hale and hearty, the veteran is now safe in the Settlement, having been brought to Shanghai by two British Volunteers who went in a launch to Woosung to rescue him.

The old man had to be persuaded to leave, and while the Volunteers were urging him, both the Chinese and Japanese ceased fire.

TRUE FIGURES OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

THOSE ALWAYS OUT NO MORE THAN 103,000

That continuous unemployment in Great Britain is limited to a very small section of the insured population, numbering not more than 100,000 men and 3,000 women, is the conclusion of very careful investigations made by the Ministry of Labour.

The number of those in regular work who have known no unemployment is at least 30 times as large.

Between these two extremes there is a group of about 5,600,000 men and 1,700,000 women (insured) who are sometimes employed sometimes not. But for at least half this group unemployment is negligible, and only serious for about one-tenth of them.

These striking facts were obtained by the Ministry, for the Royal Commission on Unemployment, by taking a 1 per cent. sample of the total number of insured people, that is 120,000, of whom 86,740 were males, and the remainder females, and comparing them with similar investigations made five and more years ago. This method of testing, by the way, has been found perfectly trustworthy and the conclusions can be depended upon.

The contrast they present with the prevalent idea of 25 million people in Great Britain living in a perpetual state of dependence on the country is an extraordinary one, and it deserves the widest attention.

Late in Coming.

The only pity is that this was not done years ago. The misleading nature of the returns was perfectly well known, the monthly issue has frequently been urged, but neither Parliaments nor the public have been quick to make the necessary change. The result has been a most undesired "black eye" for Great Britain, and to do her much harm abroad.

Returning to the newly issued report, we find that—

During the period of nine years from July, 1921, to June, 1930, over 30 per cent. of those in the sample had paid the maximum possible number of contributions and 80 per cent. had paid two-thirds of the maximum.

In any one of those nine years nearly 60 per cent. had paid maximum contributions and 90 per cent. more than half the maximum.

The average number of contributions paid by the whole body of insured persons has been 44 a year among males and 46 among females; or over 80 per cent. and about 90 per cent. respectively of the maximum possible.

In other words it might roughly be said that the whole body of the insured had been eight weeks in the year out of employment, as regards men, and six as regards women.

Even if this was far too rough and ready a way of viewing the actual state of affairs it might well be compared with the position of doctors, lawyers and business men, whose enforced days of idleness tot up to a good deal in a year.

But the report shows further that—

A large proportion—35.4 per cent. of the males and 48.4 per cent. of the females—had not drawn unemployment benefit between November, 1920, and December, 1930. Those who have had little or no employment are necessarily within the transitional benefit class; but nevertheless appreciable numbers who secure a fair amount of employment.

Among those qualified for full standard benefit not more than 10 per cent. had been unemployed, on the average, for six months out of 12.

In the shorter, of about 7 1/4 years, that is from October 18, 1922, to December 30, 1930, more detailed particulars are given. The upshot of a very minute analysis is as follows:—

Including now only those who were insured throughout the 7 1/4 years, those who did not receive benefit and those who did—in other words, the "always at work" and those partly unemployed, the following figures are given to show the proportion of the period on each:

Some, 31.3 per cent. men and 30.1 per cent. women.

Less than 10 per cent. of the period, 71.2 per cent. men and 78.1 per cent. women.

Less than 20 per cent. of the period, 85.2 per cent. men and 93.3 per cent. women.

Less than 30 per cent. of the period, 92.1 per cent. men and 97.9 per cent. women.

The remaining 7.9 per cent. of the men and 3 per cent. of the women received benefit for between 30 per cent. and 90 per cent. of the period.

The upshot of the Ministry of Labour's inquiry gives great hopes of the possibility of bringing back the unemployment relief scheme to a self-supporting genuinely insuring basis.

Ease of the Work-shy.

Anticipations are published to-day of the recommendations which the Royal Commission is expected to make to the Government to this end.

One proposal will probably be to include various categories of workers not at present ranked among the contributors to the State system of unemployment insurance—such as railwaymen, the clerical class, and agricultural workers.

The great aim must be to make the system self-supporting and to stop borrowing from the Exchequer. From conversations I have had with various artisans always in regular work, they have no objection whatever to paying

LOST GEMS STILL GUARDED.

23 RECOVERED OUT OF 32 SHOWER FROM AIR.

As a result of an intensive search in the immediate vicinity of the spot at Sir Lowry's Pass where the South African air mail crashed with the loss of three lives on November 13, no fewer than 23 out of the parcel of 32 diamonds that were lost have been found.

The parcel of diamonds was sent from the Rand to Cape Town and was stated to be valued at £2,000, but the official estimate by the authorities in Cape Town, now, of the value of the stones, is only £300.

Up to last week only two diamonds had been found on the scene of the disaster, and one other some distance away, thus supporting the theory of the authorities that the diamonds became dislodged while the machine hurtled through the air, and were scattered over a wide area.

The police protection, especially at night, has been most successful in preventing persons prowling about the area in search of the diamonds, all of which are cut and therefore can easily be disposed of.

LONDON'S HISTORIC TOWER.

GOVERNOR OF WINDSOR CASTLE TAKES UP OFFICE.

The Earl of Athlone, the new Governor of Windsor Castle and Constable of the Round Tower, will not live in the Castle premises, but will conduct all official business from an office in the Round Tower.

Before being appointed Governor-General of South Africa, Lord Athlone lived in the Henry Third Tower at the Castle. The Castle governor at one time always used the Round Tower as a residence, and he was invested with great powers and responsibilities. To his care and custody all State prisoners were entrusted and many persons of historical note were imprisoned there.

Among them were King John of France, David, King of Scotland, and the Earls of Lauderdale and Lindsay.

It was when James I. of Scotland was imprisoned in the Tower that he first saw Jane Beaufort walking in the garden at its foot. She afterwards became his Queen.

weekly contributions by which genuine workers may benefit from time to time. That is an equitable arrangement, since, if they go out of work, others will indirectly be paying for them. What they do object to, and very keenly, is the ease with which the work shyer have been able to live on the country.

HOSTILITIES LIKELY BEFORE TIME-LIMIT.

Japan's Demands Almost Certain to be Ignored.

Some of China's best troops are employed in the Chapei fighting. These men are firing from a sand-bag barricade erected at an important road junction opposite the Japanese lines.

SEVEN A.M. AS THE VITAL HOUR.

DEFENCE ACTIVITY THE ONLY REPLY.

CHINESE STRONGLY ENTRENCHED.

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 12.18 p.m.
IT IS FEARED THAT HOSTILITIES ON A BIG SCALE WILL COMMENCE BEFORE THE EXPIRY OF THE TIME-LIMIT. THERE IS EVERY INDICATION THAT THE CHINESE ARE DEFINITELY UNPREPARED TO ACCEPT ALL THE TERMS OF THE ULTIMATUM, AND SEVERE FIGHTING MAY BE EXPECTED ANY TIME AFTER SEVEN O'CLOCK TO-MORROW MORNING.

The terms of the ultimatum as translated by the Chinese, include, according to an announcement issued from Mr. Wu Tieh-chen's office, the cessation of Chinese hostile activities immediately, the completion of withdrawal to the twenty-kilometre line from Chapei and the banks of the Whangpoo, by five o'clock p.m. to-morrow, and in order to prove their sincerity, the Chinese troops must commence to withdraw by seven a.m.

The Chinese must still be responsible for the safety of Japanese lives and property in districts under their control and if Japanese lives and property are not protected, Japan reserves the right to take whatever action they consider necessary.

All anti-Japanese activities must cease. There must be no military movements or preparations in the area evacuated. Japanese aeroplanes will fly over to examine whether the withdrawal is being effectively carried out, and the Japanese will send an investigation commission, carrying Japanese flags, into the evacuated area to see the withdrawal properly performed.

In the event of the Chinese failure to comply with these terms, the responsibility for whatever action may follow rests upon the Chinese.

The only Chinese reply up to noon to-day had been intensive preparation to fight a defensive battle. Some of their defence systems are considered to be impregnable to infantry attack. Immense activity for battle is proceeding in the Chinese lines.

One of the chief developments has been the extension of the left flank of the Chinese defences, although according to authentic reports, a large number of men have been withdrawn from the Liuh Road to other points in the line.

STRONG DEFENCES.
Much stronger defences are in evidence along the Liuh Road, while the creeks and the other defensive positions in the Kiangwan area are said to be almost impenetrable to a frontal attack by infantry.

The Jessfield lines, beyond the St. John's University, have been strongly reinforced, and the same strengthening both of the character of the defences and of the numbers of men occupying them, has been noted along the length of the Paoshan Road. Strong barricades are up and barbed wire obstructions are thickly distributed in front of the line.

STRATEGIC MOVES.
Extensive lines of barbed wire and trenches along the Cheniu Road and the Soochow Creek indicate that the Chinese are on the alert against attack from all points. Their guns are being shifted from day to day to prevent the Japanese stretcher cases following heavy fighting in the Chapei sector are shown in the top picture. Lower photo shows Japanese hastily erecting sandbag barricades to defend a position from which they were later forced to withdraw by the overwhelming weight of a Chinese attack.

THREE-INCH SHELL HITS SAVOY HOTEL.

FOREIGN ASSISTANT MANAGER'S LUCKY ESCAPE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 12.18 p.m.
Mr. Jack Howard, the assistant manager of the Savoy Hotel had an extremely lucky escape from death last night.

The Broadway district, between the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building and the Savoy Hotel suffered a bombardment between 11.30 p.m. and 12.15 a.m.

At least eight shells exploded in this district, some of them bursting over the roadway, tearing down the overhead electric wires and smashing hundreds of windows by the concussion.

BURSTS IN ROOM.

One of the shells hit the Savoy Hotel, penetrating and exploding in the room occupied by Mr. Jack Howard, the assistant manager. Mr. Howard must have had a premonition of danger. On hearing the shells exploding in Broadway, he put on his dressing gown and had barely closed the door of his room when the missile came through the opposite wall.

CAFE ALSO HIT.

Two shells hit Browning's Cafe, but the extent of the damage has not yet been ascertained. The shells were three-inch and it is not known whether they were Chinese or Japanese.

A squadron of aeroplanes flew over Woosung yesterday morning and dropped about a dozen bombs on the Chinese positions, while six machines were up to-day dropping bombs in the vicinity of Kiangwan.

PU YI'S RESTORATION.

Chief Executive in "Tachung."

BRITISH OPINION.

Tokyo, Feb. 19.

Although the name of the Chief Executive of the "new independent State" being formed in Manchuria and Mongolia, is still being withheld, Press despatches clearly hint that he will be the ex-Emperor, Pu Yi.

A message from Mukden states that Tsang Shi-yi, the Governor, has informally accepted the position of Prime Minister.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI'S FATE.

London, Feb. 19.
The Daily Telegraph, in a leading article on the Manchurian developments, expresses the opinion that the political independence of Manchuria will not preclude the supremacy of Japanese influence. The "Open Door" and the co-existence of all peoples will best recommend the new State to the benevolent recognition of the Powers.

As regards Shanghai, the Telegraph says that the military results of the forthcoming battle are easier to forecast than the political. The political results will depend upon the quite unforeseen damage which will be inflicted upon the International Settlement.—Reuter.

LOCAL DERBY SENSATION.

TRENTBRIDGE SCRATCHED.

Mrs. Pearce's Trentbridge, the favourite for the Hongkong Derby, was scratched from all engagements to-day, causing a considerable sensation in local racing circles. No explanation was available at the time of going to press.

IRISH ELECTION RESULTS.

STALEMATE SEEMS PROBABLE.

London, Feb. 19.
A stalemate appears the likely result of the Irish Free State elections, though at the moment the Republicans are leading. Labour is losing seats to both the Government and the Republicans, but they hold the balance of power in the new Dail.

The state of the parties at 4 a.m. was:
Republicans 46.
Government 32.
Independents 10.
Labour 7.
There are 54 results at present outstanding.—Reuter.

THE JUNIOR GOLF CLUB RIFLED.

SHELL CRASHES INTO BUILDING.

HEAVY ARTILLERY EXCHANGES.

(Our Own Correspondent).

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 11.20 a.m.
No reply has been sent to the Japanese Ultimatum. It is believed that the Chinese authorities are engaged in drafting an answer and that it will consist in a firm refusal to comply.

Artillery fire was being exchanged all last night, though there was less activity this morning. Shells have been dropping into Hongkew, especially in the vicinity of the Wayside wharves, with a regularity which suggests that the Chinese gunners are deliberately directing their fire into this part of the Settlement with the purpose of interfering with Japanese preparations for their offensive campaign.

The Junior Golf Club premises were struck by a shell and the north wall and roof damaged. The premises were later entered by thieves, whisky and beer bottles being strewn all over the floor, cigars and cigarettes removed. Silver cups and trophies were left untouched.

The Japanese have now landed four three-inch naval guns with a range of ten thousand yards, which have been placed into position. (Continued on Page 8.)

TSAI TING-KAI DEFIANT.

"I WILL NOT BOW TO JAPAN."

READY FOR THE BATTLE.

(Special to "Telegraph").

Shanghai, Feb. 19, 10.55 a.m.
General Uyeda's ultimatum to General T'ai Ting-kai, the youthful leader of the XIXth Route Army, is prominently featured in both the Chinese and foreign newspapers.

The China Press quotes General T'ai Ting-kai as having said, on its receipt: "I will not bow down to Japan, but will continue in the defence of my country."

Shanghai now waits anxiously for sundown to-morrow when, if the ultimatum is rejected, the Japanese will begin their projected offensive.

The Chinese forces are apparently anything but seriously perturbed by the superior equipment of the Japanese.

The headquarters of the Nineteenth Army have warned the public against contributing war funds to any other but bona fide collectors as several persons are known to be diverting the donations to their own pockets.—Reuter

BRITAIN HOLDS BACK.

House of Lords Debate.

London, Feb. 18.
The dangerous and delicate situation as a result of the Sino-Japanese conflict in and around Shanghai was debated in the House of Lords to-night.

Lord Ponsonby, the leader of the Labour Peers, expressed the opinion that the true facts were being concealed from the people of Japan, where the militarists were temporarily in control.

He believed, however, that there was still a great deal of right feeling in Japan, which might be appealed to and he hoped that no attempt would be made to bargain with the Japanese Government on the lines of allowing them a free hand in Manchuria in return for a relaxation of the Japanese stranglehold in Shanghai.

BRITISH LEAD URGED.

He thought that the British Government should take the lead in League Council in readiness to penalise any nation breaking its pledges.

Lord Hallahan, replying, said the situation in Shanghai was causing grave concern to the Government. He emphasised that the authorities of all foreign Powers in Shanghai were co-operating very cordially.

LOSS OF LIFE & PROPERTY.

RESPONSIBILITY

London, Feb. 18.
The acute interest with which the House of Commons is watching events in the Far East was shown again to-day when the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, gave members the latest information in his possession.

After referring with regret, to the two British naval ratings who were killed yesterday by shells which, from their direction, seemed almost certain to have been fired by Chinese guns, Sir John Simon said the British Minister had sent a Note to the Chinese Minister for Foreign Affairs, calling attention to the losses and requesting that strict instructions be issued to the Chinese military authorities concerned, with a view to preventing any possible recurrence of such incidents.

Both Sides The Same.

He was also reminded that the British Government must, in this unfortunate conflict between China and Japan, hold each side responsible for any loss to British life and property that may be caused by their respective armed forces.

Referring to the meeting this morning between the Chinese and Japanese military authorities, which he mentioned had been largely brought about by Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister, in the hope that a cessation of hostilities might be arranged, Sir John Simon said the House would regret that the latest press messages indicated that an agreement had not been secured.

Mr. George Lansbury raised the possibility of withdrawing all British residents from Shanghai in the event of a continuation of hostilities.

Sir John Simon declared that the possibility was being very carefully considered, but he was unable to give any further answer. The practical difficulties of such a step must be examined on the spot.—Reuter and British Wireless.

UNION CHURCH MEETING.

RETURN TO NORMAL CONDITION.

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES.

The annual general meeting of members of the Union Church, Kennedy Road, took place last evening in the Church Hall.

The proceedings began with a social, at which songs were rendered by Mr. E. Keown and recitations were given by Mr. C. C. Hickling. After an excellent supper provided by the Ladies' Committee, the annual meeting was held.

Mr. A. T. Hamilton, Chairman of the Committee of Management, was elected to the chair. In moving the adoption of the report and accounts, the Chairman congratulated the Church on the ministry of the Rev. E. G. Powell and on its sound position in spite of a deficit in the accounts. This was due to the exceptionally heavy repairs to buildings, which had to be carried out in the past year but which were not likely to recur for many years to come.

Mr. P. D. Wilson seconded the adoption of the report and accounts, and this was unanimously carried.

New Officers.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Joint Hon. Treasurers:—Mr. N. M. Currie and Mr. S. S. Cook.

Hon. Secretary:—Mr. E. Hims-worth.

Committee of Management:—Messrs. J. Mitchell, C. Pryce and A. T. Hamilton, Dr. E. W. Kirk, Rev. E. G. Powell, and Messrs. A. T. Hamilton, C. C. Hickling, J. Mitchell, M. F. Key, J. Lacey, H. J. Lamb, P. D. Wilson, A. Stevenson, S. V. Boxer, Nicholls, W. Elliot.

Ladies' Committee:—Messrs. Mitchell, Pryce, Thompson, P. D. Wilson, Goodall, Nicholls, E. L. Phillips, Boxer, Nicka, Hickling, Robertson, A. R. H. Phillips, Hamilton, and Wilson.

The meeting approved of a proposal that the work of the New Territories Evangelisation Society be transferred to the Sixth District of the Canton Synod of the Church of Christ in China, it being understood that the Union Churches of Hongkong and Kowloon will form Auxiliary Societies for the support of the work and will be represented on the Committee organizing the work.

The Report, presented by Mr. E. Hims-worth, Hon. Secretary on behalf of the Committee of Management, states:

Annual Report.

The Committee of Management has much pleasure in presenting to the Shareholders the report and balance sheet for the work of 1931.

The year 1931 has seen a return to normal and steady progress in the life of the Church. It is difficult to estimate the spiritual results of the work of any church but we are pleased to record well sustained and increasing congregations throughout the year, and this interest in the public worship augurs well for the future prosperity of the Church. It is very gratifying to be able to congratulate the Rev. E. G. Powell, on the success of this first full year of his ministry; a result that has only been achieved by a devoted and tireless service on his part and the tactful facing of the many problems which are the inevitable lot of a minister.

Finance.

A pleasing feature of this year's working account is an increase shown in the Sunday Collections of $1,165.64. This, however, is offset by a serious deficit in the amount of subscriptions, and it is hoped that this lost ground will be regained during the coming year. In preparing a budget for the year a reasonable amount is set aside for repairs and renewals, but two big items under this head have resulted in much heavier expenditure during 1931 than was anticipated. Retraining the Church Hall roof and the rebuilding of the entire lavatory accommodation absorbed $3,725.67. These have contributed to an adverse balance for the year, amounting to $2,141.99, but your committee believes that such extraordinary expenditure is unlikely to recur during the forthcoming year. The Church has naturally suffered from the trade depression experienced during the year but your committee is confident that the congregation will not allow the Church to become financially embarrassed.

The Services.

When the fleet was in port a naval parade was held on Sunday at 10.15 a.m. Throughout the year detachments from the South Wales Borderers have regularly attended the ordinary morning services. Service men were well represented at the evening services and at the Social hour which followed. We are indebted to the Ladies' Committee for the work undertaken in supplying refreshments on these occasions and to Dr. Ride who made possible the broadcasting of the community singing.

Young Peoples' Society.

A series of bathing and tennis parties were held during the summer months, all of which were well attended and furnished enjoyable afternoons. In the course of the year a new feature was established in "Young Peoples' Sunday"—the morning service of the fourth Sunday in each month being devoted to the interests of young people. However, there still exists a real need for more cohesion among the young people of the church and for an effort to fill the gap which exists in the religious lives of so many after the conclusion of their Sunday School days.

The Choir.

Throughout the year the Choir has done good work in the morning and evening services. Our thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Phillips for entertaining the Choir at a most enjoyable social evening towards the end of the summer which brought members together and made a starting point for renewed activities in the winter. These efforts culminated in the Choir Festival on the last Sunday in the year when a special musical service was held and selections from the "Messiah" were rendered. The success of this Choral Service was proved by the exceptionally large and appreciative congregation and the enthusiasm with which outside helpers came to our assistance. We hope something similar can be arranged every year. The Committee is greatly indebted to our Organist and Choir-Master, Mr. Longyear, for his faithful and successful services.

The N.T. Evangelisation Society.

It is unfortunate that the accounts of the New Territories Evangelisation Society showed a deficit for the year. It is with the hope of interesting a larger number of people in and extending the work on the New Territories that a proposal will be made at the annual general meeting for the transfer of control of the Society to the Sixth District of the Church of Christ in China. It is further proposed that an auxiliary missionary society shall be formed by this church whose primary object will be to assist the New control on the New Territories. The results of the Society's work during the year have been extremely gratifying, a great deal of interest centring round the erection of a new chapel at Castle Peak. There have been constant appeals from districts where the organization has not yet reached and we should be falling in our duty if we denied the Christian message to those who desire to receive it.

The Sunday Schools.

Kennedy Road: An encouraging feature of Church life in 1931 was the increased activity shown in the Sunday Schools. Joint services were held in the Church on Sunday School Anniversary Sunday and on Christmas gift Sunday. The number of Scholars at Kennedy Road is now 60 under the supervision of seven teachers and a hard working superintendent Mr. Nicka. The children had a most enjoyable afternoon picnic at Repulse Bay in October. During the year the Scholars contributed $150 to the New Territories Evangelisation Society.

Quarry Bay.

The Sunday School at Quarry Bay meets at three o'clock on Sunday afternoons in Taikeo Club Hall. The attendance has been well maintained during 1931 and there are about 40 names on the roll. The children's weekly offerings provide education for one pupil in the Ying Wah Girls' School. The school is fortunate in having an enthusiastic band of teachers who do much good work among the scholars.

The Committee desires to express its deep appreciation of the work done by those who have helped in the Sunday Schools during the year.

Kowloon Union Church.

The Committee desires to congratulate the Kowloon Union Church on the completion of the new church and manse, also upon the new constitution which they have adopted. We rejoice with them in the settlement of the Rev. Dr. Allen, as successor to the Rev. Horace Johnston. The enthusiasm displayed during the year and the large gathering to welcome the minister promise well for the future.

While Parker Duofold owners do not share the general aversion to leading (because no hand disturbs the nib's point), yet to deprive them of their pet pens is carrying a good thing too far.

But if parents don't supply enough pens to go around, how can a fellow learn the three R's, especially when two of them—'riting and 'rithmetic—depend on having a good pen and pencil?

With school days here again, let's do some at the nearest Parker Pen counter.

Let's note especially that Parker Duofold Pens have 22% to 60% more ink capacity than other makes. None of these has Parker's Pressureless writing point, Invisible Filler and streamlined style—"America's shapeliest"—with Patented Clip that lets the Pen or Pencil set low and unexposed in the pocket, or without bulge in handbag.

Ladies' Committee and Guild.

The report of the Ladies Committee and Guild states:—At the first meeting the title of the Committee was changed to the Ladies Committee and Guild and later in the year the members of the work party sub-committee of the Women's Guild were co-opted.

Two jumble sales were held one in May the other in November, and proved very successful. As a result of the first the sum of $400 was given to the Hongkong and New Territories Evangelisation Society. The second sale was in aid of home charities, but it was decided to defer remittance meanwhile, on account of the low rate of the dollar.

A bridge and mah-jong drive was held in October and proved a great success in every way. A feature of the meeting was a splendid display of work demonstrating the activities of the working party of the Guild. A social gathering for service men was held in March and was well attended.

Some of the members of the committee arranged afternoon parties at their own homes, as a result of which the social entertainment fund benefited considerably. Other activities included the provision of flowers and other decorations for the church, and the undertaking of ten arrangements for the Sunday evening social hour.

HARDY LONDON WOMEN ATHLETES: TWO CROWN PRINCES.

It was a cold winter day, and that water was icy. But these women runners didn't mind, as their smiles attest, when they had to ford a stream during a cross-country race at Morden, in the environs of London.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE by KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Ann, Cecily and Mary-Frances Fenwick live with their grandparents, once wealthy, now so impoverished that Ann's and Cecily's earnings support the household. The grandmothers are known respectively as "Grand" and "Granny" and they insist on keeping up pretences of their former wealth. Ann, 24, and Cecily, 22, do clerical work and Mary-Frances, 19, is still in school. When the story opens Ann has been engaged to Philip Edwards, young lawyer, for eight years.

Cecily brings Barry Melton home to dinner. It is evident that she is falling in love with him. Mary-Frances has a telephone call from her friend, Ermintrude, who is excited about the arrival of a actor known as Earl the Mount. The two girls make plans to meet him. This comes to see Anne. He is late and rather irritable. When he leaves he neglects to kiss Anne.

Next afternoon Mary-Frances and Ermintrude go down town hoping to meet the Mount.

CHAPTER IX

Ermintrude, plumper and less favoured with positive prettiness than was Mary-Frances, and hence her satellite, received the attention at least indifferently. Since nine o'clock the previous evening, omitting only the few grudging hours given to sleep towards dawn, and the stupid interval spent in the high-school classrooms, Mary-Frances had talked unceasingly of her approaching romance. That she herself was slightly bored with the affair Ermintrude would not have admitted. That she was fearful of proceeding further into it Ermintrude had been admitting repeatedly and more and more urgently for 18 hours.

"Yes," said Mary-Frances, "that is the trouble with you, Ermintrude."

"What is?" asked Ermintrude.

"That you're like my sisters, Ann and Cecily. I told you. They think any old thing like their jobs, or keeping that old house of ours for Grand and Rosalie, or my education, even, is more important than love."

"Everybody says," contributed Ermintrude, "that your sisters are awfully good girls."

"Well," said Mary-Frances, as if the discussion had been one of racial characteristics and Ermintrude had remarked that Ann and Cecily were white, "of course they're good. Why shouldn't they be good?"

"Anyway," said Ermintrude, "I don't think you'd better, Mary-Frances, I don't honestly."

of advancing in order had ever been, for Mary-Frances, a trying tendency. At the moment, it was more exasperating than usual, because Ermintrude knew, since she had been thoroughly informed, that Mary-Frances's whole life's happiness depended upon successfully carrying through this coming venture. "Ermintrude Hill," said Mary-Frances, "sometimes you make me just sick and disgusted."

"Last night," Mary-Frances conceded, "you were all right. You understood about ideals, and the importance of love and everything. I don't know what's got into you today. I guess you just don't care about my life's happiness being fulfilled nor anything."

"I do too," said Ermintrude. "But just the same I don't think you should go and pick up strange men on the street."

"That's nice, isn't it?" reproved Mary-Frances bitterly. "And it was you your own self, over the phone last night, that said all about soul crying to soul and everything."

"Well," Ermintrude gloomily admitted, "maybe I did. But just the same, if Mother and Daddy should find out that I picked up a strange man on the street they'd kill me. They'd just naturally kill me—that's all."

"I suppose," said Mary-Frances, apologetically matching Ermintrude's gloom, "that you expect to get a long ways with your stage career, and receive ovations and everything, without a bit of bravery. Not even a teeny bit of bravery."

"To-day, during algebra," said Ermintrude, "I kind of got to thinking about Peter, and I just almost decided to give up the stage for a career."

If Ermintrude, with the thin wedge, had hoped to open a discussion of her own affairs, her hopes were unavailing. Rosy-moade, by this time, had been left behind, and the girls were coming down a small hill covered with the lush, heady greens of Oregon's uncultivated shrubbery. At the foot of the hill a service station sprouted, shining red and white in the sun. Mary-Frances clutched Ermintrude's arm. "There?" she said. "I'll stop in there and fix up. They have a ladies' rest room. It will be better than going on down to Palmer's, like we'd

"I don't hardly think they'll let you," Ermintrude objected. "Without a car or anything."

"They'd just better try to stop me," threatened Mary-Frances. She was a female thing, questing for love and beauty. Her tiny nostrils dilated slightly.

The attendant at the service station, pleasantly named Albert Jolly and as British as "Zed," had noticed two girls, whom he might have described as sweetly comely, approach and cross his gravelled corner. He had noticed them, and busy with his pumps and his oil cans, he had promptly forgotten them. He was vaguely startled, 15 minutes later, when he saw the two young persons again in his gravelled corner.

Albert was at an age when all youth looked much and beautifully alike to him. Still, he had retained an impression that the blue little lady was a bit more agreeable to the eye than was the stockier brown little lady. He looked again at the blue little lady, and his eyes opened wide, and his jaw went down a trifle, and murmuring and distinctly troubled he returned to his pumps and oil cans.

Mary-Frances had resolved that, for once in her life, she was going to look decent. The lipstick, which had done double duty for cheeks and lips, had been purloined from Cecily, as had the clown-white powder, undimmed by the tan and the pink powders with which Cecily carefully blended it. The cork for the eyelashes and eyebrows had been burned in Ermintrude's bedroom the night before; the bluing for the eyelids had been removed from the large bottle in the Hills' kitchen to a small vial that morning.

There could be no doubt as to the altered appearance of Mary-Frances. Ermintrude, looking again at her friend as they left the gravel and gained the sidewalk, declared, "You're a perfectly ravishing beauty, Mary-Frances darling. And, my, but you look old! Honest, no feeling, you look almost—jaded." Which was delivered as high homage, and which was so received.

The girls went on, past Rosy-moade's Development and Realty Company, down Tanner street, past the Crombley's New and Second-Hand Furniture Company, past the Sans Souci Apartments, past the post showing the sign, "Fenwick

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"THIS MODERN AGE" SHOWING.

"This Modern Age," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, proving an excellent vehicle for Joan Crawford's acting abilities, although the story is not a particularly gripping one. She plays the role of a modern young woman, who, despite her love of a gay life, rebels against the atmosphere created by her fast-living mother. Romance is introduced, of course, and in the end, everything works out satisfactorily.

Joan Crawford is quite good in the part, but Pauline Frederick is even better as the sophisticated mother. Neil Hamilton plays the male lead, but he is not too convincing. The film is admirably produced, with some effective settings which go a long way to make up for shortcomings in other respects.

WOMEN'S WORLD

COLOURFUL SWEATERS ADD A PIQUANT NOTE TO WARDROBES.

Necks and Sleeves
Have Originality

New Models Are Short, Fitted.

[By Joan Savoy.]

Nothing short of a whole dress or costume can have the cocktail effect of a becoming new sweater blouse. No longer can you call them merely "sweaters." They have all the grace, piquancy and originality of hand-made little blouses. And usually they add much more in the way of colour.

Sleeves Take on Variety.
Necklines and sleeves are the points of chic to gaze at in the new sweaters. There are some little tricky pullovers that have short, very full puff sleeves that fairly drop off a wide yoke. But for wear in colder climes, there are several different versions of the fancy long sleeve that will catch your eye.

For one of the popular blue,
blue and white tricolour effects, a navy closely knit sweater (centre) simulates the sleeveless gilet effect by having its tight little rolled collar, yoke and cap sleeves of lighter blue and white. The yoke and the little cap sleeves are something brand-new in the sweater field, looking for all the world
the way a dainty organza does when it uses ruffle upon ruffle to achieve an effect.

In Rough and Ready Mode.

night blue (left), that is practically a black and white plain and polka dotted blouse. It is an unique knit, a diagonal knit with yoke and sleeves of white mesh with dots the same dark blue.

If it's something with colour that you are looking for, a new string coloured sweater, in a loose, easy knit, has a rounding, rolled collar, scarf and puff sleeves of brown, orange and white. This is one of those short little sweaters that fits down over the skirt band, but no farther. This is the new length—all the smartest little sweaters are selling short nowadays!

Your eyes should be the loveliest part of your face. Keep them relaxed as tired little lines around the corners will not develop. Get enough sleep to keep them bright and shining.

There are several exercises which keep the muscles in and around the eyes firm and healthy. Sit in a comfortable chair and relax. New close your eyes and see darkness.
Count twenty. Open them and look at a bright light. Count twenty again. Repeat both exercises ten or fifteen times.

Focus your eyes on a point as far distant as you can see. Count twenty. Quickly change the focus of your eyes to a point at arm's length and count thirty. Repeat these two exercises, alternating, ten times. Now hold your head erect and without turning it at all, look as far to the left as is possible and then to the right as far as possible.
Do this ten times and then move your eyes in a complete circle, without turning your head, five times.

Open your eyes as far as you can, count four, close them tightly and count three. Repeat the exercise

ten times. Now sink some cotton wool in cool water, place them over your eyes and leave them there for five minutes. If you possibly can, do the exercise followed by the five minutes repeated, twice each day. You'll notice a decided improvement both in the beauty and the strength of your eyes within a few weeks.

You should use an eye bath at night to remove all the dirt and dust particles which have collected during the day. Fill an eye cup with a weak solution of boracic acid and water and thoroughly wash
the eyes. If you prefer, you may use a prepared antiseptic solution instead of the boracic acid. If you have difficulty getting your eyes to "wake up," bathe them in the morning as well as at night.

If there are tiny lines around your eyes or if the skin looks stretched, put them with a good nourishing cream before you go to bed.
Leave a little of it on all night.
If the lines are really etched into the skin, use a miracle retreating oil. It will be more effective if you warm it before you put it around your eyes.

You should see an oculist once a year and if he advises glasses, buy some. Wear them when you read or sew, and in that way, you will keep them from becoming as weak that you have to wear glasses
all the time.

CAKES WORTH TRYING.

Marzipan Varieties.

Put ½ lb. loaf sugar into a saucepan with a pint of water and a pinch of cream of tartar. Boil together until a small thread forms when the mixture is cooled and tested between finger and thumb.
Add 1 lb. of ground almonds, the lightly whipped white of an egg, and a few drops of almond essence,
and bring to the boil. Turn the mixture on to a wet slab or board and work into various shapes with fingers that have been dipped into cold water.

By adding a few drops of appropriate colouring matter to different portions of the mixture you can make the most realistic cucumbers, onions, carrots, pears, or eggs in nuts.

Almond Princes.
Put 6oz. of sifted icing sugar into a basin with 2oz. of chopped almonds and 2 whites of eggs.
Work all together with a wooden spoon for about ten minutes or until the mixture thickens, and then drop,
in small portions, on rice paper or sifted baking sheets. Lay a few shreds of almonds on top of each little cake and bake in a fairly quick oven.

WAR COSTS.

Yesterday, we had some observations on the popular fallacy that nations which go to war are only those who can financially afford it. It will be appropriate if we now turn to the question of the cost of wars. Some little time back a table was prepared showing the cost of armed conflict to the world. It was an inadequate table, inasmuch as it took no account of the destruction of property, the loss of human life and consequent impoverishment of the financial and economic chaos produced, or of the moral and spiritual disturbance. These things, of course, cannot, for the most part, be estimated. The table to which we are referring is simply a recapitulation of the Budgets of the seven leading Powers of the world insofar as they apply to armaments and Service (as distinct from war) pensions. Even in this restricted form, the figures are striking enough. They show that in a typical year no less a sum than $623,000,000 was actually spent by the seven leading nations in respect of past wars, present armaments and preparations for war which, despite treaties, may come. Here are the detailed figures:—United States, $175,000,000; Great Britain, $115,000,000; France, $104,000,000; Russia, $91,000,000; Italy, $50,000,000; Japan, $49,000,000; Germany, $38,000,000.

For comparative purposes, the budgetary method is somewhat misleading, since there are countries which are much more generous to their soldiers than others. For this reason, the figures given cannot be used as a test of relative armament. But the broad fact remains that more than six hundred millions sterling was spent in this typical year on war and preparation for war. It should be pointed out that there are in addition war pensions other than service pensions. It should likewise be pointed out that there are debts from country to country which were brought into being by war and will hang like a millstone on the necks of this and future generations; and internal debts which absorb a high percentage of the national revenue. It is calculated that Great Britain, which is groaning under a mounting load of taxation, is paying 55 per cent. of its budget on behalf of past wars, and another 15 per cent. in preparation for possible future wars. These latter may never come, and it is hoped, and indeed widely expected, that they will not come. But they are being paid for in advance just the same.

And the case of Great Britain is, of course, typical. In France, for example, a very small proportion is left for current domestic and constructive purposes after the overwhelming charge for past and future wars is met. Besides, though the seven leading powers are included in this list, examination would show that the multitude of smaller nations are paying on a proportionate scale the same staggering tribute to Moloch. Is it not time, in a world which is presumably willing to be governed by reason, that this levy, sometimes as high as three-quarters of the national revenue, for wars past, present—and feared—should be reduced? To ask the question is surely to answer it.

Developing Internationalists.

The Secretariat of the League of Nations, whose composition has again been under discussion by the impending resignation of Sir Eric Drummond, the Secretary General, should furnish the world with models of international men. It is true that all the chief offices have been allocated to various nations; but the contention, notably of Italy, that appointments to office in the League of Nations should be frankly nationalist, distorts the whole conception of the League. It does not matter that this post is held by an Englishman and that by a Frenchman, or a third by a German and a fourth by an Italian; but it does matter immensely that in office each should regard himself not as the nominee of a nation but rather as the servant of the League of Nations. From this standpoint the foreign ministers who go as delegates to Geneva are admittedly handicapped; in this is undoubtedly to be found one of the reasons for the League's weak handling of the problem of the Far East; they doubtless wish to forward the League, but by their office they must consider the particular views of their respective countries. The question may, indeed, arise whether any man who has been brought up in national schools and has acquired national prejudices can ever become entirely independent of his early environment and teaching. The proposal has been made—and it is worth pondering—that the officials of the League of Nations eventually should be recruited not from this or that country, but from men who have been educated in an international centre, such as Geneva itself, which possesses a distinguished university; men who from their youth have resolved to devote themselves to super-national purposes, who have been trained to that end, who from the outset have been developed as international men. Until such an ideal can be made practical, however, the encouragement of the realisation that a League official, by definition represents no nation, but only the League of Nations, will help overcome extreme nationalistic tendencies. As such he must not be a partisan of any national policy. He must not be swayed by public feeling at home. In point of fact the atmosphere of Geneva, the contact with fellow officials, a certain habit of thought and practice, have already helped to develop a decided internationalism. It simply remains to carry on the present tendency to its logical conclusion.

WHAT DO WE EXPECT OF 1932?

A Trade Boom

Says SIR WILLIAM MORRIS.

I HOPE in the next six or twelve months to see a great revival in all British industries that will put the old country back in the place in the sun where it ought to be. I am hoping, indeed, to see a trade boom—but whether my hopes are fulfilled and the country gets back to prosperous conditions depends upon the Government carrying out the grave duties and heavy responsibilities they have had put upon them.

And, first and foremost, we must have protection of our industries. The motor industry has hitherto prospered because it has been thus favoured. Now we must have protection for British steel and British lace and all other British industries, including agriculture.

When I hear of shiploads of goods produced abroad by sweated labour coming into this country to keep millions of men out of work, I feel so annoyed that I sometimes wonder whether I am one of the lunatics and all the rest of the people are sane.

The foreigners have had duties imposed on us for a long time back, but we have not had duties imposed on them. They must have considered us mad not to have retaliated.

A Triple Hope

By LORD APSLEY.

My first hope for 1932 is that the totally erroneous idea that Britain makes use of State-aided migration in order to dump her unemployed on the Dominions will entirely disappear; my second, that migration will increase because it has an effect on inter-Imperial trade, on which both we and they depend for the prosperity of our existing population; and my third, that there will be a decided improvement in trade and agriculture.

I believe, too, that towards the end of the New Year the unemployment question will begin to solve itself, not because of increased prosperity but because the drop in the birth-rate which has shown itself from 1915 onwards will begin to exercise a marked effect on the labour market. If prosperity increases, indeed, there may even be a shortage of workers.

The introduction of a penny post and reduced freights and passenger fares within the Empire would also be a forward step. A common Empire currency is to be hoped for, but, I fear, will not be seen in 1932.

The End of

"Dismal Jimmies"
CRAWFORD

The closing months of 1931 have ended with an outlook of brighter industrial conditions for Britain. It is my hope that these conditions will continue and be bettered, and that we shall have done with brooding over depression.

We Shall Become

"Air-Minded"

Says SIR ALAN COBHAM.
I believe that 1932 is going to be a year when we shall take great jumps forward. Things move in jerks, as I have noticed, and in this coming leap year we are going to leap very much indeed. Trade depression will lift, and progress will be most marked in every field.

In particular, I can confidently predict that there will be a great boom in aviation. We shall become "air-minded." People will realize that we are out of the dangerous stage in civil flying years ago, and that it is now as safe to travel by air as it is to go by land; and perhaps safer. The hire of air taxis will become more common, and we shall see an aerodrome attached to every town, and probably a landing ground close to every village.

But first we have got to educate Local Authorities up to the new movement. They have got to realize that investment in an aerodrome or a landing ground is wise, since it is more than an investment in mere land; it is also bringing traffic to their town. They must learn this, and abandon their dusty ideas. I am working as hard as I can towards this end, and 1932, I think, will see my hopes fulfilled.

Revolt Against

Says LT.-COM. KENWORTHY.

My main hope for 1932 lies in the revolt of the common people—farmers, artisans, doctors, shopkeepers, and so on—against the intolerable burden of armaments. I hope that this will happen in all countries, for all countries are suffering. France, in this matter, is no better off than we are, for with falling trade she is suffering from rising taxation and rising unemployment, both due directly or indirectly to militarism.

And in this country fifteen shillings out of every pound of taxation goes towards armaments, or the strengthening of military resources.

The present expenditure on preparations for hypothetical war cannot possibly continue unless we have all taken leave of our senses. I am hoping that in the near future there will be such an uprising of popular opinion against war that the militarists and their colleagues, the armament makers, will be brushed aside. The League of Nations can help in this, but only if Russia and America decide to join the forthcoming World Conference in a helpful and constructive spirit.

In conclusion, trade in this country will improve if taxation is reduced (and the reduction of taxation depends to a large extent upon disarmament); if the tariff obstacles to trade all over the world are removed or reduced; and if we come to a settlement in the matter of war debts and reparations; and the best way to do this would be to wash them all out.

An all-round reduction of armaments would be a step forward. It is my main hope for 1932.

BAITING TEACHER.

A RECENT article in the Evening Dispatch dealt with some practical jokes which children of former days were wont to play on their elders, but what about that more risky pastime—baiting the much abused schoolmaster?

In my school-days certain bright members of the class seemed to spend most of their time in trying to invent various methods by which this desideratum might be accomplished. There was one gentleman in particular against whom these tricks were directed.

FATAL MOTOR SMASH.DRIVER CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

The fatal accident in Waterloo Road on Wednesday when an earth cooler was killed had a sequel at the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Fraser this morning when a lorry-driver named Wong Kam-leung was charged with manslaughter.

It was alleged that whilst in trying to overtake another lorry, defendant's vehicle collided with a handtruck in Waterloo Road near the Kowloon Hospital, killing a man between the shafts and injuring two others.

Inspector Mason applied for a remand when the case was mentioned this morning, and his Worship accordingly remanded the case until to-morrow morning.

BRITISH STOCKS STIMULATED.PLEASANT BANK RATE SURPRISE.

London, Feb. 18. The reduction of the bank rate to-day from six to five per cent. had a stimulating effect in the City and on the Stock Exchange.

It was the first reduction since Britain left the gold standard five months ago.

The change came as a pleasant surprise and business received an immediate stimulus, stock prices generally being marked up.

The outstanding feature at the close was the substantial gains registered by all the leading gilt-edged securities. These included: War Loan Five, a rise of three quarters to 99½; Funding Loan four per cent, rise 1½ to 88½; consolidated four per cent, rise 1½ to 86½. British Wireless

WORLD DIVIDES SUGAR TRADE.CHADBOURNE EXPORT QUOTA SCHEME.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 18. The International Sugar Conference has agreed to Mr. Chadbourne's scheme for the limitation of sugar production.

Under the quota system now endorsed, Java is allotted a 1932 export quota of 1,350,000 tons, Cuba an allotted an export quota of 2,350,000 tons, Germany's limit is 350,000 tons, Poland is permitted 300,000 tons in exports, Czechoslovakia's share is 570,000 tons, Hungary's 340,000 tons, Belgium, 30,000 tons and Peru's 371,000 tons.—Reuter.

SILVER MARKET IDLE.HONGKONG DOLLAR DECLINES.

Silver is unchanged both in London and New York, but the local dollar has dropped 1.8th, the demand rate being 1s. 5. 3/16d.

London reports a featureless market, with conditions very quiet. After the official fixing, the market ruled idle.

New York is also unchanged, but the market is steady.

Locally, the market is a little steadier than yesterday, but there is practically nothing doing.

DE BEER'S CLOSE DOWN MINES. STAGNATION OF INDUSTRY.

Kimberley, Feb. 18. It is officially announced that De Beers' mines are being closed down on March 31 owing to the very serious conditions prevailing in the diamond trade.

The company considers that a complete cessation of diamond production will tend to produce confidence in the trade and will lead to an earlier revival of the diamond industry.—Reuter.

SHIP COLLISION JUDGMENT.N. Y. K. VESSEL TO BLAME.*C. N. CO. SUCCEEDS.

Declaring that the Toyooka Maru was the chief contributor to the collision with the Kiangsu, the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) this morning gave his judgment for the China Navigation Company against the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

The Chief Justice found in favour of the China Navigation Company in both instances, allowing their claim for $40,000 and dismissing the counter-claim of $40,564.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mr. M. M. Watson of Messrs. Johnston, Stokes and Master, were for the plaintiffs and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. E. S. C. Brookes, of Messrs. Hastings, Denys and Bowley, was for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha.

The Judgment.

After reviewing the circumstances leading up to the collision his Lordship said, in part:—I have no hesitation in saying that the main cause, at least, of the collision was the action of the Toyooka Maru in crossing the fairway into fog. It was a very dangerous course to take, and she might with safety have anchored in the then clear water to the south or south-east of her 7.43 a.m. position. She was perhaps again at fault in not porting when she heard the Kiangsu's fog signal at 7.11 a.m., but I do not so find and I do not base my judgment in any way on that allegation. I think that it is no answer, to my finding above, that the Toyooka Maru had "reached an anchorage ground and should have been safe." One reply to that remark is that she had not anchored but was still moving across the area, with fog signals sounding on her starboard bow.

Collision Avoidable.

I have also come to the conclusion that after sighting the other ship, the Toyooka Maru could have avoided the collision by at once dropping anchor, an obvious manoeuvre and one which ought almost to have been automatic unless the Toyooka Maru had then no way on. I find that she had way on. The master admitted that it would have been bad seamanship not to drop anchor if the Toyooka Maru had had way on, but he said that she was at a standstill.

Another important piece of evidence is that the Toyooka Maru's own log shows that she was not at anchor at the time of the collision. This would have been very difficult to explain if the Toyooka Maru had been stationary in the water, seeing that the Kiangsu was then turning under starboard helm, the crew of the Toyooka Maru were looking for the anchor, the operation could have been performed at once, and the Assessor agreed with me that the first anchor dropped would have had an almost immediate effect, and that there would have been no collision. The Toyooka Maru was thus at least the main cause of the collision, and she could also by ordinary care and skill have avoided it at the last moment.

Excessive Speed Not Proved.

The next point is the speed of the Kiangsu. The master said that at the moment of sighting he was going at "about 6 knots over the ground", or "about 11 knots through the water", thus putting the tide at about 2 knots. The master of the Toyooka Maru puts the tide at about 1 knot. The Kiangsu's preliminary net puts the tide at "1½ to 2 knots". I have taken it as 1½ knots, and the Assessor agrees. It would appear therefore that the Kiangsu was going at a little more than 4 knots through the water on her own showing. . . . The onus was on the Toyooka Maru to prove excessive speed, and she has failed to prove any speed higher than a little over 4 knots through the water.

Border Line Case.

It was also urged that the speed of the Kiangsu was any case excessive because of a certain rule of practice which has been laid down in various ways in different cases. . . . The Assessor is of opinion that a little over 4 knots through the water was not an excessive speed for this purpose, and that any reduction below that speed would have made the margin of safety rather fine. The case seems to me to be very near the border line, but I am not prepared to differ from the Assessor's opinion on this point. I therefore find that the Kiangsu was navigating "at a moderate speed having regard to all the existing circumstances and conditions", up to 7.47 a.m. when in my opinion the second part of Article 16 comes into play and practically supercedes the first part of that

Article.

On the other ground of complaint I hold that the Kiangsu was to blame. She may have been justified at first in assuming that the fog signals of the Toyooka Maru were those of an outward bound ship which would obey the starboard rule, and so that they were the signals of an ascertained ship, but at 7.17 a.m. at latest when those signals had become nearer and finer on the port bow, she should have realised that the other ship was not behaving as a normal outward bound ship would behave, and she should have then treated that other ship as an unascertained ship and she then immediately stopped her engines, but continued on her course.

Question of Onus.

It was impossible on the evidence to say if the nonstoppage of the engines had any physical effect in helping to produce the collision. If the Kiangsu's engines had been stopped, there might have been no collision, but, on the other hand, the collision might have been worse.

As the evidence did not clear up the point, one was driven back on onus. He need not give his reason, said Sir Joseph, but he had come to the conclusion that, as the Kiangsu had broken a statutory rule, and had done a wrong thing in regard to another vessel, the onus was upon her to show that the wrong thing did not physically contribute to the collision. She obviously failed to discharge that onus. That finding, however, did not dispose of the matter, because of the "subsidiary" rule, that a ship, herself antecedently in fault, can nevertheless recover in full if the other ship, also in fault, could have avoided the collision by the exercise of ordinary care and skill.

Mainly Contributory.

In the present case he was satisfied that it was the Toyooka Maru which mainly contributed to the accident and the rule was here invoked in favour of a ship which contributed in only a minor degree to the collision. Further the Kiangsu's negligence was not the initiating act of the manoeuvres which resulted in the collision, but was a negative default into which she was betrayed by the positive negligence of the Toyooka Maru.

It was argued that even if the Toyooka Maru was to blame in not anchoring, she should be excused on the "agony of the collision" principle, but he thought that that principle was inapplicable in the case of a ship which was herself mainly responsible for the existence of the agonising moment.

Could Have Avoided Collision.

He therefore came to the conclusion that though the Kiangsu was negligent in not stopping her engines at 7.47 a.m., yet that was not in law a contributory cause of the collision, because the Toyooka Maru could have avoided the collision by the exercise of ordinary care and skill, i.e., by dropping anchor.

The Toyooka Maru brought herself into the position of danger, and default of the Kiangsu was due to an error of judgment in the ambiguous position created by the Toyooka Maru herself. He therefore found that the Toyooka Maru was wholly to blame, and entered judgment for the China Navigation Company, with costs.

MOTORIST FINED TEN DOLLARS.FAILURE TO CARRY LICENCE DISC.

Mr. F. Burrell, of Messrs. Butterfield & Swire, was summoned before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy to-day, for parking his car, on February 7, in Mount Kellett Road, prohibited to motor-traffic, and for failing to carry an appropriate licence disc. The police stated that the incident occurred between the War Memorial and Matilda Hospitals.

Mr. Burrell complained that his permit for driving in that road had been cancelled and he had not been notified of such action.

Inspector Alexander said permits issued last July were effective until June of this year, but in the meantime, in September last, a Government regulation had been introduced requiring that fees be paid for such permits. A notification was sent through the post to each individual holder, requiring that such fees be payable in January.

His Worship, after the position had been explained to the defendant, discharged him on the first summons, and fined him $10 on the other count of failing to carry a licence disc.

SALESMAN WHO EMBEZZLED.

CHINESE NEW YEAR TEMPTATION.

"I think the sooner we get rid of Chinese New Year the better," smilingly remarked Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning when he was informed that a Chinese who was charged with embezzlement, had yielded to temptation because he had no money for the festivities.

The defendant, a salesman in the furniture department of the Wing On Company, was charged with embezzlement of $25.40.

A plea of guilty was entered by the defendant.

Detective Sergeant W. McIlrady said the defendant, on February 1, made a sale of certain articles in the furniture department to the total value of $217.50, but in the books of the Company had entered the sale as $192.10. The misappropriation of the balance of $25.40 was subsequently discovered.

PROTECTED BY PATENTS THE WORLD OVER

GOLF CLUB MEETING.

NEW SCHEME FOR PAYMENT BY LADIES.

AS FROM APRIL 1.

Subscriptions for lady members of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club were again discussed by members, at a largely attended meeting last night, when a resolution, setting the subscription at not more than $2 a month, was carried. The Committee's scheme, which will come into operation on April 1, provides for a fee of $2 a month for all playing associates, and $5 a year for those in the junior section.

In addressing the members, Mr. L. G. S. Dodwell (captain) said: At the annual meeting last December, the Chairman briefly referred to the matter of ladies' subscriptions and a vote was taken at that meeting, which unanimously approved of the suggestion that the new committee should go closely into facts and details and draw up a scheme or proposition with a view to bringing it into effect.

Under the Articles of Association and powers vested in the General Committee, it would undoubtedly appear that the proposed measure could be adopted without reference to the members, but seeing that specific notice of this proposal was not given prior to that meeting, and as the Committee do not contemplate any action in opposition to the wishes of the majority of the members, it was decided to call this extraordinary general meeting.

Reasons for Action. Our late Chairman mentioned one or two reasons why ladies should now be called upon to subscribe and it would be as well to record these reasons, and others, as in themselves they answer many, if not all of the objections previously raised.

It is not logical that something should be given for nothing. It is even less logical when one section of the members are directly or indirectly subscribing for the benefit of others.

Once upon a time there was a cry to the effect that married men made the Club, and would not be fairly treated if they had to pay extra for Lady relatives.

Analysis of present day membership shows that out of just 1,000 members and subscribers, now present, 422 have registered lady relatives to a total of 447. Thus you will see that some 578 members and subscribers, or well over half are paying for the free golf and benefits of the ladies related or unattached.

The membership has reached, if not passed, saturation point, and before restriction comes into force, (it cannot be long delayed) it hardly seems right that a male applicant for full membership, willing to pay the entrance and full subscription, could not do so when at the time we have a considerable number of lady members using the Clubs and courses entirely free.

Ladies in Favour. The Ladies Committee is definitely in favour of the proposal.

At the moment probably less than half of the lady players subscribe voluntarily to the Ladies' Section Special Fund, and part of that money is devoted to certain benefits, open to those ladies who do not subscribe. Although the Club is doing well, we have to adopt a progressive policy and this is impossible without funds. At the moment we have not got any surplus funds and the overdraft stands at about $25,000, therefore if we are to wait until funds are available, all progress or expansion must stop for some years.

It is difficult to form a close estimate of the revenue on the basis now proposed but as far as we can judge it will bring in between $8,000 and $9,000 annually and after allowing for a grant to the Ladies Committee, cost of collection, etc., about $7,000 should be available for development.

It has already been suggested that we proceed with the improvement to the existing Ladies Club House, these taking the form of a new storey with bedrooms and a lounge, and extending the existing ground floor verandah to form a decent light airy space for meals and offering a much better view of Course.

Whereas I am not in a position to give a definite promise as regards the utilization of funds, it is obvious that we shall be in a better position to proceed with the work and carry out progress, if the proposed resolution is approved.

If Ladies subscribe, or become non-playing members, all will have to be registered and this will assist in the general control of the Club.

Scheme Drawn Up. Coming now to the details of the subscription, I would advise you that a Sub-Committee of the General Committee was appointed to go into facts and figures. Their findings were later discussed and a few alterations or amendments made by the General Committee and the following scheme is now proposed. If approved it will be brought into force on April 1.

The fees are—$2 a month for all (registered) playing Associates—except for Junior Section who will pay $5 a year.

Non-playing Associates—Lady relatives (i.e. wives, daughters, sisters and mothers of Members and Subscribers) no charge; Unattached $5 a year.

The Lady relatives of Life Members and Honorary Members to be exempt from Subscriptions.

Only one change of status from playing to non-playing and vice versa admissible under ordinary circumstances.

S. E. GREEN BEATEN IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Producing one of the most entertaining matches to date in the open singles tennis championship, the second round encounter between Y. Hachiuma and S. E. Green yesterday was watched by a large crowd, who saw the youthful Japanese player eliminate the erstwhile champion in straight sets.

Green, still displaying a punishing backhand drive and a rather deadly short cross-court forehand shot, presented Hachiuma with a difficult proposition and the young man emerged with flying colours.

Making well-timed ground strokes with excellent precision and a nice swing on either hand, he succeeded in sustaining the rallies and often came in for a short one to drive into the corners for an ace. He was, quite naturally, faster than Green, and he used this advantage to the full. Hachiuma has quite a little way to go before he can regard his game as adequately developed, but there is no doubting the possibilities contained in his display yesterday.

A. L. Sullivan, M. V. Lo, W. C. Hung and D. B. Evans all advanced to the third round, none being exceptionally extended in their matches.

Open Singles.

(Second Round).

D. B. Evans beat W. Woo 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Chiu Chun-chiu beat Wong Kam-fuk 6-1, 6-2.

A. L. Sullivan beat G. A. White 6-1, 6-0.

M. V. Lo beat Firdos Khan 6-1, 6-0.

Y. Hachiuma beat S. E. Green 6-2, 7-6.

H. Y. Ho beat A. H. Rumjohn 6-2, 7-6.

W. C. Hung beat F. A. Redmond 4-6, 6-3.

Y. V. Segalen and Lu Tak-lam, left unfinished with the scores of 2-6, 9-7.

Maximum subscription for any one family as regards lady relatives to be $5 monthly.

The Club to make the Ladies' Section a grant (estimated not to exceed $800 annually) to cover various expenses.

No lady with male relatives in the Colony to be eligible as an associate, unless such male relative is at least a non-playing member or subscriber, or belongs to the Junior Section.

Lady visitors to the Colony will pay green fees at rates to be fixed by the General Committee.

The question of absent fees for ladies will also receive consideration. Chief Objection Removed.

It will be observed that we have made provision for a man resident to join as a non-playing member at a reduced subscription, yet enabling his lady relatives, who subscribe, to use the Courses and Club Houses. This removes one of the former chief objections.

Provision is also made for the member with several playing lady relatives, the maximum subscription for such relatives being $5 a month.

It may be argued that some distinction in the way of a different subscription should be made for lady relatives, and unattached ladies, but I can assure you that this matter has been most carefully considered and the present all round sum of $2 was approved (with only one dissenting vote) by the General Committee.

It is very easy to suggest this or that sum, but when you come to consider all the facts, the question of collecting, the different classes or categories, green fees, etc., you will find that it is not as simple as it appears at first sight.

I would finally draw attention to the proposed Resolution which is necessarily brief.

No Increase Intended.

The reason for asking your sanction now to a maximum subscription of $3 is to obviate the necessity for a further Extraordinary General Meeting, should it be found advisable at some future date to raise the subscription. I may say there is no such intention at the moment.

Mr. A. B. Stewart seconded the resolution which read:—That no lady resident in Hongkong shall after March 31 be permitted to use the courses and premises of the Club except on payment of such subscription as the Committee may from time to time deem fit, but not exceeding $3 per month in each case; such subscription to be paid in the case of relatives of a member or subscriber as if it was an increase of his own subscription; and that the Committee be authorized to make, alter or repeal all such by-laws as they may deem necessary or convenient for the above purposes with power to discriminate between different classes.

There was considerable discussion on the point whether there should be any discrimination between the fees paid by lady relatives of members and unattached ladies. A proposal that the committee be asked to consider a scheme of $1 for lady relatives and $3 for unattached ladies, moved by Mr. W. C. Clark, was lost.

TRUCE FIGURES OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

THOSE ALWAYS OUT NO MORE THAN 103,000.

That continuous unemployment in Great Britain is limited to a very small section of the insured population, numbering not more than 100,000 men and 3,000 women, is the conclusion of very careful investigations made by the Ministry of Labour.

The number of those in regular work who have known no unemployment is at least 30 times as large.

Between these two extremes there is a group of about 5,500,000 men and 1,700,000 women (insured) who are sometimes employed sometimes not. But for at least half this group unemployment is negligible, and only serious for about one-tenth of them.

These striking facts were obtained by the Ministry, for the Royal Commission on Unemployment, by taking a 1 per cent. sample of the total number of insured people, that is 120,000, of whom 86,740 were males, and the remainder females, and comparing them with similar investigations made five and more years ago. This method of testing, by the way, has been found perfectly trustworthy and the conclusions can be depended upon.

The contrast they present with the prevalent idea of 2½ million people in Great Britain living in a perpetual state of dependence on the country is so extraordinary, that it deserves the widest attention.

At the close of last year the Ministry of Labour announced that henceforward the unemployment returns would be issued monthly instead of weekly, thus making it possible to give a far more accurate idea of the actual state of the labour market.

Late in Coming.

The only pity is that this was not done years ago. The misleading nature of the returns was perfectly well known, the monthly issue has frequently been urged, but neither Party would adopt it for fear of being accused of making political capital. The result has been a most undeserved "black eye" for Great Britain, and to do her much harm abroad.

Returning to the newly issued report, we find that:—

During the period of nine years from July, 1921, to—June, 1930, over 30 per cent. of those in the sample had paid the maximum possible number of contributions and 80 per cent. had paid two-thirds of the maximum.

In any one of those nine years nearly 60 per cent. had paid maximum contributions and 90 per cent. more than half the maximum.

The average number of contributions paid by the whole body of insured persons has been 44 a year among males and 46 among females, or over 80 per cent. and about 90 per cent. respectively of the maximum possible.

In other words it might roughly be said that the whole body of the insured had been eight weeks in the year out of employment, as regards men, and six as regards women.

Even if this not far too rough and ready a way of viewing the actual state of affairs it might well be compared with the position of doctors, lawyers and business men, whose enforced days of idleness tot up to a good deal in a year.

But the report shows further that:—

A large proportion—35.4 per cent. of the males and 48.4 per cent. of the females—had not drawn unemployment benefit between November, 1920, and December, 1930.

Those who have had little or no employment are necessarily within the transitional benefit class; but nevertheless appreciable numbers who secure a fair amount of employment.

Among those qualified for full standard benefit not more than 10 per cent. had been unemployed, on the average, for six months out of 12.

In the shorter of about 7½ years, that is, from October 18, 1923 to December 30, 1930, more detailed particulars are given. The upshot of a very minute analysis is as follows:—

Including now only those who were insured throughout the 7½ years, those who did not receive benefit and those who did—in other words, those always at work and those partly unemployed—the following figures are given to show the proportion of the period on benefit:—

None, 34.3 per cent. men and 30.1 per cent. women.

Less than 10 per cent. of the period, 71.9 per cent. men and 78.4 per cent. women.

Less than 20 per cent. of the period, 85.2 per cent. men and 93.8

THE JUNIOR GOLF CLUB RIFLED.

tion in square formation about twenty yards to the north and immediately behind the Junior Golf Club premises.

The guns are being manned and operated by Japanese bluejackets and large quantities of ammunition arrived at the scene this morning.

REFUGEES STOPPED.

The further evacuation of refugees from the North Szechuan Road and the railway line area north of Range Road has not been permitted to-day by the Japanese forces, which indicates that the roads in the area are required to be free for military movements.

The Japanese are almost taking it for granted, following the rejection of their proposals for the demilitarisation of the Shanghai delta yesterday, that their ultimatum will not be complied with and are feverishly continuing the preparations for a general offensive.

HONGKEW FIRES.

Chinese trench mortar shells falling in Hongkew to-day set several fires going, but the Fire Brigade were permitted by the Japanese to proceed to the blazes to extinguish them.

A shell landed and exploded near the Chapon Road bridge over the Sochoow Creek this morning without doing any damage, while a large number of shells have landed on the other side of the river in Poohung. It is understood that there were no casualties.

CHINESE READINESS.

The Japanese field-guns are shelling desultorily and the Chinese are replying with their Stokes mortars. Reinforcements are being brought up to the Chinese lines, and it is now estimated that at least 100,000 troops are in the defence systems opposite the Japanese encampments.

MORE TROOPS.

Shanghai, Feb. 19.

Another two thousand Japanese soldiers arrived here yesterday afternoon, landing while the Sino-Japanese negotiations were in progress. It is generally expected that because of the ultimatum, there will be comparative quiet on the fronts, though Japanese aeroplanes bombed certain of the Chinese lines yesterday, doing very little damage.

All Chinese residents in Shanghai are contributing financial assistance to the Nineteenth Route Army. Representatives of the public bodies will look after the fund.

BUSINESS FEELING.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce in China, with their headquarters in Shanghai, held a meeting to discuss peace with Japan.

The meeting resolved that so long as the Japanese declined to leave Shanghai and Wusung there should be no peace negotiations. They further held that settlement of the Shanghai "war" must be negotiated together with the Manchurian problem. This meeting denounced the proposed establishment of a buffer zone in Shanghai, insisting that the Japanese must clear out.—Ren-sha.

per cent. women; Less than 20 per cent. of the period, 92.1 per cent. men and 97.0 per cent. women.

The remaining 7.9 per cent. of the men and 3 per cent. of the women received benefit for between 20 per cent. and 90 per cent. of the period.

The upshot of the Ministry of Labour's inquiry gives great hopes of the possibility of bringing back the unemployment relief scheme to a self-supporting genuinely insuring basis.

Ease of the Work-shy.

Anticipations are published to-day of the recommendations which the Royal Commission is expected to make to the Government to this end.

One proposal will probably be to include various categories of workers not at present ranked among the contributors to the State system of unemployment insurance—such as railwaymen, the clerical class and agricultural workers.

The great aim must be to make the system self-supporting and to stop borrowing from the Exchequer. From conversations I have had with various artisans always in regular work, they have no objection whatever to paying weekly contributions by which genuine workers may benefit from time to time. That is an equitable arrangement, since, if they go out of work, others will indirectly be paying for them. What they do object to, and very keenly, is the ease with which the work-shy have been able to live on the country.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

Robert Emmett Sherwood, the celebrated author of Universal's "Waterloo Bridge," was born in America, in New Rochelle, New York, April 4, 1890. He attended Harvard University in the study of the liberal arts, and then turned to the drama, writing, directing, and producing. "Vanity Fair" and associated editor of "Life" in later years, he won the title of "the stage and screen's severest critic." Turning his writing talents toward the stage of a few years ago, he wrote "The Road to Rome," "The Love Nest," "The Queen's Husband" and several other distinct hits before "Waterloo Bridge" and its ensuing sensational reception. Mr. Sherwood made a special trip to California to personally collaborate with James Whale in bringing "Waterloo Bridge" to the screen. Mr. Sherwood witnessed a considerable part of the work of the distinguished cast engaged in filming it, a cast that included Max Erland, Douglas, Doris Lloyd, Ethel Griffies, Fredric Kerr, Enid Bennett and Betty Davis. The picture, a story of a girl of the streets in London's trying way days, is showing at the Central Theatre now.

"Up for the Cup."

Sydney Howard had quite a lot of fun when enacting some of the scenes for his new film, "Up for the Cup," in Yendon, Yorkshire. Yendon is Sydney's birthplace, and one day, during a break in filming, Howard and Jack Raymond, the producer, decided on a little refreshment in the local hotel. They hid themselves in the popular taproom and while sitting there at peace with the world they overheard a discussion concerning the merits and demerits of Jack Raymond's new film. Howard, who had been with the film, decided to join in the conversation. One of the participants in the conversation informed the room at large that he considered Jack Raymond's film the best producer, and someone else endeavored to better him by saying he thought Sydney Howard the greatest comedian he'd seen. That sweeping statement was answered from an unexpected source—a voice from the corner of the room stated with quiet irony, "Ah, we stamped it on his face when he thought Sydney Howard the greatest comedian he'd seen." That sweeping statement was answered from an unexpected source—a voice from the corner of the room stated with quiet irony, "Ah, we stamped it on his face when he thought Sydney Howard the greatest comedian he'd seen." This latest British comedy success is showing from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre.

"Always Goodbye."

The road to stardom in motion pictures is a long and weary one, and it takes years of the most fortunate ever to reach top. Yet as this one, and the actress who accomplished the seemingly impossible was Elissa Landi, the scintillating English actress who is starring in the Fox picture "Always Goodbye," now playing at the King's Theatre.

It took but two pictures to raise Miss Landi to the very pinnacle of filmdom. Going to America to enact the leading role in the Broadway stage production "A Farewell To Arms," Fox Film executives were so impressed with her performance that they offered her a featured role in the recent screen drama, "Body and Soul." Her characterization was so real, and so favorably received by critics and public alike, that studio executives threw precedent to the four winds and starred her in "Always Goodbye," her second picture. In "Always Goodbye," Miss Landi impersonates Lila Banning, who has set the pace for Mayfair society at the cost of her small fortune. Bankrupt, she realizes that she has been leading a life far above her means, yet she dreads the thought of sinking down to the middle class. Her impetuous, fiery nature then leads her into a series of adventures which soon entangle her in a network of mystery and suspected crime. How she finally clears her name of all suspicion and wins the right to the one man she really loves, and cannot say "Always Goodbye" to, furnishes one of the most surprising climaxes that have been seen on the screen in many a week.

In support of Miss Landi a most able cast with Lewis Stone and Paul Cavanagh in the featured roles, John Garrick and Lumsden Hare have the other important parts. William Cameron Menzies and Kenneth MacKenzie co-directed.

"Doctors' Wives."

In choosing "Doctors' Wives" as the most suitable material for Warner Baxter's latest screen offering, coming next Sunday to the King's Theatre, Fox selected an unusual dramatic theme played against a background never before featured on the screen.

While many past novels, stage plays and screen dramas have featured the heroic services of doctors, none have brought realistically the hopes, ambitions, conflicts and inner doubts of their wives to attention. Consequently, when Henry and Sylvia Lieferman's sensational novel was brought to the attention of the Fox script department, it was instantly recognized as a most powerful subject for screen entertainment.

"No sooner had I read the script," Frank Borzage, the director, declared, "than I knew here was a story rich and compelling in human interest, and one element necessary for all great screen drama. Warner Baxter was the logical choice to portray Dr. Penning, the successful and ambitious surgeon of the story; but who to cast for the young idealistic, pretty, suspicious, emotional doctor's wife presented a more difficult problem."

Only after innumerable tests of every available actress was Joan Bennett finally chosen for the coveted role of "Nina Wyndram," a doctor's daughter who marries a doctor to become one with a legion of women condemned to obscurity under the title of doctors' wives. The story revolves about their tempestuous romance and marriage

He was a bachelor, and one day the colour-scheme of his house and locks were in most violent conflict, so it was decreed that the class should keep its united gaze fixed unwaveringly on the master's feet. The result was one of the most embarrassing half hours he had ever spent, and in the end he became so acutely aware of our attentions that he had to take refuge behind his desk, where the offending members were hidden from the public gaze.

Another day one of the more daring members of the class attacked a thin thread of one of the electric lights, and at suitable intervals caused it to sway alarmingly, apparently without any cause whatever. The culprit was discovered in the end, however, and a suitable penalty inflicted.

Breaking the Silence.

Rubbing one's wet finger over the polished tops of the hollow desks produced, when skillfully done, a noise somewhat resembling distant thunder, and during a very quiet interlude a most effective diversion was the rolling of a marble, "accidentally dropped," from one end of the floor to the other. Another trick, very difficult to bring home to the perpetrators, was for the members of the class to blow their noses or sniff loudly in sequence round the class. This, too, had a very demoralising effect on the master, as it was difficult to proceed with the lesson amid the resultant noise, while sure he could not object to our blowing our noses or sniffing from the cold on a raw winter's morning.

A practice which was not encouraged was the use of "stink-bombs," as they were termed, and it was only on rare occasions that they were used, as generally the odour, reminiscent of bad eggs, was powerful enough to attract the attention of some other master who was probably more able to cope with the situation.

Besides these "stink-bombs" other instruments could generally be obtained from obscure little shops which seemed to cater specially for the needs of the school-boy. One of these others was a sneezing powder, which could almost make one believe that a perfect epidemic of colds was raging, even in the summer. There was a certain master, who, when he was about to sneeze, had the habit of tapping his fingers on the desk in front of him. This was duly observed, and one day when he had a cold a quantity of sneezing-powder was placed on the desk with results that can well be imagined.

Too Risky.

There were also small glass globes which rather resembled "stink-bombs" in appearance, but which, when put into the fire, exploded with a very alarming noise, while the locust-bean seed was a substance which, when scraped along the floor by the foot, produced an altogether unearthly shriek. The use of the last-mentioned instrument, however, was much too obvious and therefore risky to be practised much.

It will therefore be seen that the schoolmaster's job is perhaps not to be envied so much as some people make out, as the tricks mentioned were only some of these perpetrated by one class which had each master perhaps only once each day, and if his other five or six classes each performed similar tricks, it can safely be said that the schoolmaster earns his salary and his long holidays.

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH YOUR PRESENT TREATMENT?

If you are not it is most likely because you are treating the symptoms and neglecting to treat the CAUSE. To treat disease successfully you must remove the cause. In the many complaints arising from impurities of the blood there is no finer medicine than CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, which gets to the root of the trouble by removing the poison from the blood, that is why it so often succeeds when local treatment has failed.

were neither seen nor heard.
A rounded corner brought Mary-Frances and Ermintrude to Mrs. Van Slycke's Dellenessens Shop, and automatically they stopped before its windows: fascinating salads, golden with mayonnaise; cakes towering luscious layers of coconut and chocolate; hams, cut to pink's own perfection; olives, green, and pungent dill pickles, and peas, and little rolls—all only a glass window away at four o'clock on a warm spring hungry afternoon.

"I'm starved," stated Ermintrude. "I'm just naturally starved. Let's hurry right back to our house and get something to eat. We went to your house yesterday."

Mary-Frances, too, was torn by the tooth of hunger, but path and purpose lay clear before her, and though she turned from the window with a heart-heavy sigh, she took Ermintrude's arm and pulled it and said, "Oh, for pity's sake! Come on, can't you?"

Ermintrude's opposition, which, possibly because of the amazing success attending the venture for beauty, had been constrained since the girls had left the service station, now pushed forth, surcharged with feeling.

"Yes, but, Mary-Frances, Fenwick, I don't think you ought to, I think you'd better give it all up right now and go in for a college career."

Ann, at her desk in the office of the Redfern Plumbing and Heating Company, looked again at the clock on the wall. Twenty-five minutes past four, and Phil had not telephoned to her all day long. Usually, at least, when things went wrong in the evening, Phil telephoned to her early the next day—not to make love: Phil did not approve of love-making over the telephone—but to reassure her, to let her know that he was not angry, to make an engagement for the evening. It was mean of him not to telephone to-day. She would have called him gladly, but Phil thought it not quite nice for girls to telephone to men. It was mean of him, getting a number was so easy. Waiting for a message—waiting for anything was hard.

ELECTROCUTED IN HIS BATH.

CHINESE MERCHANT'S DEATH.

A Chinese wine merchant met his death early yesterday morning under peculiar circumstances whilst having a bath at his residence in Hung Ho Terrace, 12, St. Stephen's Lane.

The deceased, Mr. Leung Min-hin, aged 57, was having a bath shortly after midnight and was using an electric heating apparatus which he had placed on a wooden grating at the end of the bath to keep the room warm. The apparatus accidentally fell into the bath and electrified the water.

Mr. Leung struggled and shouted, and inmates of the house went to his assistance. Efforts to resuscitate him proved fruitless, however. During the struggle in the water, the deceased kicked the heating apparatus and severely burned his legs.

CHINESE CLAIM UPHELD.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY MEETING.

Geneva, Feb. 18.

Jurists have been in conference all day to-day, considering the Japanese juridical objections to the convocation of a special meeting of the League Assembly.

It is understood that they have upheld the legality of the Chinese application.

out had kept in the closest touch with the United States and Powers members of the League of Nations, and pointed out that it would not be wise or proper for the Government to take any action which might seem to separate it from the other members of the League and identify it with the United States in any sort of opposition to other members of the League.

The Government had made every effort to keep in very friendly touch with the United States and simultaneously remain constant to its own duty to the League and to ensure that the whole Council of the League would be the body which would co-operate with the United States.

ARTICLE XVI ISSUE.

Lord Hailsham said that Lord Ponsonby's suggestion of automatically putting into operation the provisions of Article XVI of the League Covenant would be very dangerous and improper because it involved prejudging the issue, which the Council of the League had to determine, namely, which was the blameworthy nation against which sanctions ought to be invoked.

The action suggested by Lord Ponsonby would be a declaration that Britain deemed that Japan had committed an act of war against the other members of the League.

IS WHAT THE WAY?

"Would that be the way to limit the area of hostilities?" he asked. If the necessity arose, Lord Hailsham went on, the withdrawal of all British residents from Shanghai would doubtless be considered, but it would be an exceedingly difficult and perhaps a most disastrous process.

Strange Japanese Comment on XIXth Army.

Geneva, Feb. 18.

Mr. W. W. Yen, the chairman of the Chinese delegation, has asked for a special meeting of the Council to be held to-morrow, owing to the grave news of the presentation of the Japanese ultimatum in Shanghai.

Mr. Yen will ask the Council to endeavour to prevent the catastrophe which seems imminent. A communication issued this evening by the Japanese delegation to the League of Nations states:

"The majority of foreigners and many Chinese in Shanghai regard as desirable the removal of the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army, whose attitude is highly dangerous for the Concession."

The statement adds that the Nineteenth Route Army contains many Communist elements and the Nanking Government which proposed to disband it, "had now placed troops around it, isolating it and watching its movements."—Reuter.
